SWIM CLASSES ARE PLANNED

Instruction To Be Given At The City Pool

Swimming instruction will be given in the city swimming pool in classes to be held on all days of the week, except Saturday and Sunday. It was announced today.

There will be a women's class each morning at 9:30 o'clock, excepting Saturday and Sunday, and a boys and girls class at 10:30 each morning, except Saturday and Sunday.

HOME CITY OF PRESIDENT MOURNS FOR SON, AS FUNERAL TRAIN ROLLS INTO NORTHAMPTON FOR SERVICES

Business Suspended, and Silent Crowds Stand at Attention As Funeral Train Reaches Massachusetts City—Simple Services Are Decried by Family

Northampton, Mass., July 10.—(By the A. P.)—The funeral train bearing the body of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., younger son of President Coolidge, reached here at 7 o'clock Eastern Standard Time for services in the Edwards Congregational Church.

This city, nestling under the shadow of Mount Tom, halted business and traffic for its last tribute to the President's son.

President and Mrs. Coolidge and their surviving son, John, left the train shortly after arriving and went to the Coolidge home. There they were met by Col. John C. Coolidge, father of the President, and Mrs. Andrew Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Coolidge.

Col. Coolidge had come from his home at Plymouth, Vt. and both he and Mrs. Goodhue will accompany the residential party to Plymouth where Calvin Coolidge will be buried later in the day. It was also planned by the President to have his father return with the family to the White House.

The casket under a new cover of fresh pink roses, placed there this morning, remained in the compartment of the president's coach, the last in the special train, when the funeral accompanied it from the station. Church bells tolled.

All of the President's immediate family rested comfortably on the all night trip. Five minutes after arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, dressed in deep mourning with John, left their coach to go to the old home.

Silent Groups Gather

Silent groups gathered along the railroad track and stood uncovered as the train came up the Connecticut Valley into Massachusetts. Factories stopped work and employees stood at attention.

Northampton was unusually quiet. The President had asked that the services here be observed with simplicity and the home folks sought to comply. Business was stopped by official proclamation, between 8:30 and 10:30 o'clock standard time when the funeral procession and services were under way. Main street was devoid of life.

Train Moves

The funeral train left here for Ludlow, Vermont, at 10:30 a. m. From Ludlow the party will proceed by automobile to Plymouth where simple burial services will be held at the grave in the cemetery on the hill where Coolidges have been buried for four generations.

At Plymouth, Vermont

Northampton, Mass., July 10.—Former playmates and neighbors in the town where he was reared to the approach of manhood tendered their service of respect this morning to Calvin Coolidge Jr.

President and Mrs. Coolidge, who came from Washington with their dear ones, were consoled by the townspeople of Northampton at the simple rites the family had wished. Those were held in the Edwards Congregational Church where Calvin as a boy was taken into membership.

This afternoon at Plymouth, Vermont, over the road he had traveled on summer vacations to his grandfather's farm, the presidential party was carrying the body of the 16-year-old boy to the Hillside cemetery where lies the mother of the President.

SHIPPERS WIN RATE BATTLE

Northwest Given Important Victory by I. C. C.

Minneapolis, July 10.—Northwest shippers of grain and grain products won a signal victory today when the Interstate Commerce Commission denied the request of a group of railroads for permission to add six cents per hundred pounds to the shipping rate on grains and flour from Minneapolis to points in Texas, according to word received today by Lee Koempel, acting manager of the Minneapolis Traffic Association.

The increase sought by the carriers were to apply to grains and products reshipped from Minneapolis from points of origin throughout the Northwest, he explained.

Board Sitting To Equalize Taxable Values

The board of county commissioners is sitting today as the county board of equalization, beginning the annual task of equalizing the values of property for taxation in the county, from the assessments turned in from the various townships, villages and cities. ## GREAT FINNISH RUNNERS DOWN YANKEES' BEST

United States, However, Still Leads in Points Scored in Olympic Games

RECORDS SHATTERED

Nurmi, Finnish Star, Stages Double Victory Over Other Nations at Colombes

Olympic Stadium, Colombes, France, July 10.—The United States had an imposing point lead over Finland at the end of today's final events. The point score was: United States, 177; Finland, 103; Great Britain, 46 1/2; Sweden, 24 1/2; France, 13 1/2; Switzerland, 10; Hungary, 7 1/2; South Africa, 5; Norway, 4; New Zealand, 4; Denmark, 3, and Canada, 2.

Olympic Stadium, Colombes, France, July 10. (By the A. P.)—Despite the spectacular double victory of Finland's great runner, Pavo Nurmi, who won the 1,500 and 5,000 meter runs in the Olympic record time, the United States increased its point lead over the little Scandinavian nation on the fifth day of the Olympic competition by winning both the polo vault and hammer throw.

Nurmi and Ritola outclassed the field just as the former had spread-eagled the opposition earlier in the afternoon in the 1,500 meters. Edvin Yde of Sweden set the pace for five laps, but cracked as first Nurmi and then Ritola took turns in setting a dizzy clip.

Fifteen hundred meters from the finish he appeared to be shaking off Ritola. But Ritola put all he had in the finish, pacing stride for stride to the tape but lacking just a fraction of the speed necessary to overtake the winner.

America had some consolation when John Romig, former intercollegiate cross-country champion, beat out Sipila of Finland for fourth place. Romig ran well but like the rest of the field was not in the same class as Nurmi and Ritola.

Olympic Stadium, Colombes, France, July 10. (By the A. P.)—Pavo Nurmi, the Finnish whirlwind, started one of the greatest bids for Olympic fame any athlete ever attempted in a single afternoon today by running away with the 1,500 meter race in the new Olympic record time of 3 minutes, 53 3/5 seconds. The other track Nurmi set for himself was winning the final in the 5,000 meters.

Taking the lead in the 1,500 meters before the first 200 meters were covered, Nurmi set his own pace all the way, breaking the heart of the American star, Ray E. Barker, Illinois A. C. Lloyd Hahn, Boston A. C. also closed with a rush that carried them past the fast-tiring Watson and they finished in that order for the remaining places.

Nurmi, timing his own race with his famous stopwatch simply won as he pleased, proving himself without peer at this distance.

SELECT BRYAN ON ONE BALLOT IN CONVENTION

Nebraska Governor Is Named by Democrats After Sen. Walsh Declines

APPROVED BY DAVIS

Close of Democratic Convention Finds Much Different Spirit From Earlier

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 10.—With John W. Davis, of West Virginia, chosen as its standard bearer and Governor Charles W. Bryan, of Nebraska, as his running mate, the Democratic national convention brought its tempestuous sessions to a close early today.

Breaking down the deadlock that had gripped the convention tenaciously through more than 100 ballots, the convention named its presidential choice at the afternoon session, and selected vice-presidential candidate in its last session at 2:30 a. m.

It was only after a record shattering convention that the Democratic national ticket was named. Nominated on the 103rd ballot in the final dissolution of the deadlock which had kept the convention battling for ten days, Mr. Davis began his service as the leader of his party by unsetting precedent and addressing the convention at its closing session and then coming into conference with convention managers over choice of a nominee for vice-president.

Davis Approves Bryan

Governor Bryan was chosen for second place on the ticket after his friends had placed before Mr. Davis and his conferees an argument for selection of a western man of proved executive capacity, familiar with agriculture and in sympathy with the liberal sentiment of the country.

The nomination of the Nebraska governor, who is a brother of William Jennings Bryan, took only one ballot. The word that the leaders wanted him nominated was passed quickly after the convention hall and although active campaigns had been made for several other candidates the result was not long in doubt.

Mr. Bryan was declared nominated at 2:22 a. m., Eastern daylight saving time. Then after a few last minute formalities the convention adjourned sine die at 2:24 a. m.

And the delegates for the last time filed out of the old Grand Central station, having been crazed and their patience worn out by the more than two weeks of the most stirring scenes in all political history.

The story of the nomination of John W. Davis, as told by the official figures, is a record of the unwavering support of a handful of men and women from far and near, who never lost faith that he could and would be the choice of his party.

Native Son Wins

Throughout the long deadlock the backbone of his strength was the little delegation of his native West Virginia, but there never was a time after the first ballot when the 16 votes of the West Virginians were not at least matched in the Davis column by those that came in dribs and drabs from other delegations.

Almost from the first Porto Rico's six went in whole or in part to Davis. For many weary ballots Louisiana stood solidly behind him when the pressure to leave his trailing banner was strongest. And it was the united voice of the delegation from Maryland, speaking through Governor Albert C. Ritchie, that signalized the final turning of the tide.

On the opening ballot more than a week ago, only 15 votes beside West Virginia's were cast for the future nominee. The total of 31, Porto Rico contributed 5, Hawaii 1, Pennsylvania 4, Minnesota 1, and (Continued on page 2)

DECLARES TEST ISOLATES GERM

Organism Causing Cancer Found — May Be Able To Immunize, Physician Says

Philadelphia, July 10.—Dr. T. J. Glover of Toronto, speaking last night before the Philadelphia Clinical Association and the Chemical Society of the National Cancer Hospital, said he had isolated the organism which caused cancer, told of successful tests, and he hoped to be able to immunize human beings.

According to Dr. Glover, the cancer organism is a bacillus, occurring singly, in pairs or in chains of three or more. He has been able to isolate it from every type of human tissue and grow it in special media, using it to produce cancer in animals and to develop an antitoxin from young, healthy horses.

Dr. M. T. Warruth and James T. Donnelly of Philadelphia told of their experiences with the serum. In extreme cases, they declared, little could be expected of the serum as it was not a cure but a treatment.

Up to May first, 1924, they said, 41 humans had been treated. Of these 25 died, four showed no improvement, 34 were improving and 17 were free from all symptoms of the disease, some for as long as a year and a half. A number of Philadelphia physicians and scientists cautioned against hasty acceptance of the serum as a permanent remedy.

HOME TOWN CELEBRATES

Bryan, nominees of the Democratic national convention, the national committee agreed today to postpone the reorganization session of the committee until after the formal notification of the candidates, which dates have not yet been agreed upon.

Mr. Davis and Governor Bryan attended the committee meeting and were given an enthusiastic reception. The present organization of the committee will be continued until the chairman is selected, it was agreed.

WOMEN MEET

New York, July 10.—A two-hour session of women members of the Democratic national committee adjourned today after unanimously adopting a resolution expressing appreciation of the work of Mrs. Emily Newell Blair of Missouri, as vice-chairman of the committee, but without recommending a successor or suggesting reelection of Mrs. Blair.

CLARKSBURG CELEBRATES

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 10.—The "Pistol friends" of John W. Davis were rejoicing today. They saw him started on the way to the White House, a path they had been blazing for four years.

That Mr. Davis declined to take an active interest in their campaign to make him president disheartened the "home town club" not a bit. Its members kept plugging away, booming Davis week after week and today his neighbors surveyed the result of their persistence with entire satisfaction.

As the nominee of the Democratic party they have invited him back home for a celebration and at a rehearsal last night staged a demonstration in his honor, comparable to political rallies of a decade ago.

When the news was flashed that Davis had been nominated, the town called it a day and celebrated. Whistles blew and church bells rang. Bandmen left their work hurriedly, obtained their instruments and started a parade. Hundreds fell in line, some walking, others in automobiles, up and down the streets they went, yelling, singing and shouting, their numbers always increasing.

Meantime active preparations were under way for a more formal demonstration at a "Davis rally" on the courthouse plaza at dusk. The demonstration had its prelude in an old-fashioned political parade with the marchers carrying banners and red fire torches. In it were civic organizations, patriotic societies, men, women and children, all Davis boosters.

The demonstration continued far into the night. Bonfires were lighted on neighboring hill sides and the fireworks display rivaled that of the recent Fourth of July celebration.

The town was in gala attire today. All buildings in the downtown section were decorated with flags and bunting as well as many houses in the residential sections. Among them was the Davis homestead where the Stars and Stripes appeared shortly after news of Mr. Davis' nomination was received.

LIBRARY TO HAVE EXHIBIT AT FARGO FAIR

Interior views of various libraries also will be shown.

One feature of the exhibit will be the "Rotary shelf" of boys books, being books recommended by the International Rotary and also by the state department of education.

The point score of the leaders after the 1,500 meter run was United States 138; Finland 83. The Swiss Star, Schärer, the dark horse of the race, came from behind and beat out Stallard, the Britisher, for second place by a few feet, 20 meters behind Nurmi. Stallard, exhausted by his efforts, collapsed after crossing the line and it was several minutes before he was revived.

Low, the British star, and two Americans, Ray B. Buber, Illinois A. C. and Layton, Boston A. A., also closed with a rush that carried them past the fast-tiring Watson and they finished "that order for the remaining places."

Nurmi, timing his own race with his famous stop watch simply won as he pleased, proving himself without peer at this distance.

SELECT BRYAN ON ONE BALLOT IN CONVENTION

CLOSE OF DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION FINDS MUCH DIFFERENT SPIRIT FROM EARLIER

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 10.—With John W. Davis, of West Virginia, chosen as its standard bearer and Governor Charles W. Bryan, of Nebraska, as his running mate, the Democratic national convention brought its tempestuous sessions to a close early today.

Breaking down the deadlock that had gripped the convention tenaciously through more than 100 ballots, the convention named its presidential choice at the afternoon session, and selected its vice-presidential candidate in its last session at 2:30 a. m.

It was only after a record shattering convention that the Democratic nation was picked. Nominated on the 103rd ballot in the final dissolution of the deadlock which had kept the convention balloting for ten days, Mr. Davis began his service as the leader of his party by unsetting precedent and ending the convention at its evening session and then going into conference with executive managers over choice of a nominee for vice-president.

Davis Approves Bryan. Governor Bryan was chosen for second place on the ticket after his friends had placed before Mr. Davis and his conferees an argument for selection of a western man of proved executive capacity, familiar with agriculture and in sympathy with the liberal sentiment of the country.

The nomination of the Nebraska governor, who is a brother of William Jennings Bryan, took only one ballot. The word that the leaders wanted him nominated was passed quickly about the convention hall and although active campaigns had been made for several other candidates the result was not long in doubt.

Mr. Bryan was declared nominally at 2:22 a. m., Eastern daylight, saving him time after a few last minute formalities the convention adjourned sine die at 2:24 a. m.

And the delegates for the last time filed wearily out of the old Garden where their nerves had been frayed and their patience worn out by the more than two weeks of the most stirring scenes in all political history.

The story of the nomination of John W. Davis, as told by the official figures, is a record of the unwavering support of a handful of men and women from far and wide who were convinced that he could and would be the choice of his party.

Native Son Wins. Throughout the long deadlock the backbone of his strength was the little delegation of his native West Virginia, but there never was a time after the first ballot when the 16 votes of the West Virginians were not at least matched in the Davis column by those that came in dribs and drabs from other delegations.

Almost from the first Porto Rico's six went in whole or in part to Davis. For many weary nights Louisiana stood solidly behind him when the pressure to leave his trailing banner was strongest. And it was the united voice of the delegation from Maryland, speaking through Governor Albert C. Ritchie, that signaled the final turning of the tide.

On the opening ballot more than a week ago, only 15 votes beside West Virginia's were cast for the native nominee. Of the total of 31, Porto Rico contributed 5, Hawaii 1, Pennsylvania 4, Minnesota 1, and (Continued on page 2)

CROP FIGURES SHOW CORN IN SHARP DECLINE

Opened Crop Season With Lowest Condition Ever Reported on July 1

Washington, July 10.—Corn opened the crop season with the lowest condition ever reported on July 1 and indications of production are half a billion bushels less than last year despite an acreage of 1.4 percent larger than planted a year ago.

The department of agriculture's first forecast of the season, issued late yesterday, placed total corn production at 2,515,000,000 bushels. An unusually cold June was responsible for the low condition of corn, but were decidedly favorable for wheat, oats, and barley, which show a decided improvement in prospect over a month ago.

Wheat Forecast Increased. Wheat production forecasts were increased 47,000,000 bushels over June predictions, with a total crop of 740,000,000 bushels now indicated, while the forecast for oats jumped 124,000,000 bushels to 1,256,000,000 bushels.

Smaller crops than last year of white and sweet potatoes, tobacco and apples are indicated, but barley, rye, flaxseed, rice and peaches production will be larger than last year. Wheat stocks on farms on July 1 were smaller than a year ago and less than the average for that date during the previous five years.

World wheat production reported to date was announced as 1,555,000,000 bushels, compared with 1,647,000,000 bushels last year for the same countries which produced nearly half the wheat of the world outside of Russia.

Farm Supply Lower. Wheat remaining on farms July 1 is estimated at 30,696,000 bushels, or 3.9 percent of last year's crop, as compared with 35,894,000 bushels July 1, last year, and 33,187,000 bushels, the average stocks, on July 1, for the five years, 1918-22.

The condition on July 1 and forecast of production of corn for principal producing states included: Minnesota, 72 percent and 133,194,000 bushels. Iowa, 72 percent and 347,283,000 bushels. South Dakota, 72 percent and 113,318,000 bushels.

Conditions and forecast of production in spring wheat includes: Minnesota 81 percent and 18,712,000 bushels. North Dakota, 88 and 73,944,000 bushels. South Dakota, 88 and 26,598,000.

HAIR STORMS ARE FEWER

Total of Claims Is Far Below Last Year's Figures

An absence of severe hail storms in the state in the last two weeks has brought the total number of hail losses claimed of the state hail insurance to 4,400 less than at the same date last year, it was reported at the state hail insurance department today. While the number of losses claimed last year had reached 9,700 on July 9 the figure was 5,300 at the close of business last night, it was said.

Severe storms earlier in the season indicated a possible greater hail loss than usual, but since June 26 very few claims have been reported.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Stages Old-Time Demonstration After Hearing News

New York, July 10.—Approving the suggestion of John W. Davis and Governor Charles W. Bryan, nominees of the Democratic national convention, the national committee agreed today to postpone the reorganization session of the committee until after the formal notification of the candidates, which dates have not yet been agreed upon.

Mr. Davis and Governor Bryan attended the committee meeting and were given an enthusiastic reception. The present organization of the committee will be continued until the chairman is selected, it was agreed.

WOMEN MEET

New York, July 10.—A two-hour session of women members of the Democratic national committee adjourned today after unanimously adopting a resolution expressing appreciation of the work of Mrs. Emily Newell Blair of Missouri, as vice-chairman of the committee, but without recommending a successor or suggesting reelection of Mrs. Blair.

CLARKSBURG CELEBRATES

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 10.—The "Pistol friends" of John W. Davis were rejoicing today. They saw him started on the way to the White House, a path they had been blazing for four years.

That Mr. Davis declined to take an active interest in their campaign to make him president disheartened the "home town club" not a bit. Its members kept plugging away, booming Davis week after week and today his neighbors surveyed the result of their persistence with entire satisfaction.

As the nominee of the Democratic party they have invited him back home for a celebration and at a rehearsal last night staged a demonstration in his honor, comparable to political rallies of a decade ago.

When the news was flashed that Davis had been nominated, the town called it a day and celebrated. Whistles, band and church bells rang. Bandsmen left their work hurriedly, obtained their instruments and started a parade. Hundreds fell in line, some walking, others in automobiles, up and down the streets they went, yelling, singing and shouting, their numbers always increasing.

Meantime active preparations were under way for a more formal demonstration at a "Davis rally" on the courthouse plaza at dusk. The demonstration had its prelude in an old-fashioned political parade with the marchers carrying banners and red fire torches. In it were civic organizations, patriotic societies, men, women and children, all Davis boosters.

The demonstration continued far into the night. Bonfires were lighted on neighboring hill sides and the fireworks display rivaled that of the recent Fourth of July celebration.

The town was in gala attire today. All buildings in the downtown section were decorated with flags and bunting as well as many houses in the residential sections. Among them was the Davis homestead where the Stars and Stripes appeared shortly after news of Mr. Davis' nomination was received.

LIBRARY TO HAVE EXHIBIT AT FARGO FAIR

How traveling libraries may be obtained in rural communities of the state will be shown in an exhibit at the North Dakota State Fair at Fargo July 14 to 19. Miss Lillian Cook, director of the state library commission, who will be personally in charge of the exhibit, said today that the exhibit will include traveling libraries, showing the books in them, together with explanations of how they may be obtained; graphs will be used showing the work of the commission and the service given to libraries in various cities and towns, and also how nearly these libraries conform to established standards. Interior views of various libraries also will be shown.

One feature of the exhibit will be the "Rotary shelf" of boys books, being books recommended by the International Rotary and also by the state department of education.

COUNTRY CLUB IS PLANNING SPORT EVENTS

Annual Golf and Tennis Championships Contests Are on the Program

Opening of the annual handicap tournament of the Bismarck Town and Country Club, set for this week, and the annual open championship tournament in two weeks, were announced today by C. S. Haines, chairman of the club's golf committee. The honor of the winner's name being engraved on the club cups is awarded in each event.

An unusually large number of golfers will enter the handicap event, since there are more golfers on the local course this year than for several years. Handicaps are being figured to give every player an even chance to win out.

The Bismarck club probably will send several players to the state golf tournament in Fargo the second week in August.

A tennis tournament also will be held at the Country Club.

FIVE BANKERS ENTER PLEAS OF NOT GUILTY

Sioux Falls, S. D., July 9.—Pleas of not guilty to indictments charging them with violations of the state banking laws were entered in circuit court late yesterday by Frank H. Johnson, Don B. Johnson, Ted Johnson, D. M. Parrick and Carl Berry, officers of the closed Sioux Falls Trust & Savings Bank.

J. C. Cozad of Martin, S. D., indicted with them, entered his plea of not guilty last week. The court overruled demurs to all the indictments except one of those against Don B. Johnson, which will be re-submitted to the grand jury as soon as it convenes again.

That of the indicted bankers will take place at the next term of court in September, it was announced last night by State's Attorney Hugh S. Gamble. Mr. Gamble added that he would fight any attempt to delay action.

FORMER RAIL HEAD SLAYS WIFE AND SELF

Michigan City, Ind., July 9.—Charles N. Wilcoxon, 68, former president of the Chicago, Lake Shore and South Bend Railway company, operating between South Bend and Chicago, killed his wife, 70, with an axe, a razor and a potato masher, and then hung himself at their home at Long Beach some time Monday night. Their bodies were discovered last night.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Vail, who reside in a cottage near the Wilcoxon home, and who visited them daily became alarmed when they did not see the couple yesterday and summoned officers who forced an entrance.

Mrs. Wilcoxon's body was found on the floor in a pool of blood at the foot of the bed, and that of her husband hanging from a rope in a clothes closet.

Mrs. Wilcoxon had been in ill health the last year. Wilcoxon had also been in poor health and this fact is believed to have been responsible for the killing and suicide.

Testing Battery Polarity

A simple method of determining the polarity of a battery or cell, and at the same time roughly measuring its strength, is as follows: Dissolve 1 part of potassium iodide in 25 parts of water; place the solution in a shallow dish; soak several pieces of white blotting paper in it, then remove them and allow to dry. To use, moisten a piece of the prepared paper and touch it with wires leading from both poles of the battery, keeping them about 1/2 in. apart. A dark-brown spot will immediately be produced where the wire from the positive pole touches the blotter. A dead cell or battery will produce no spot. A little experience in judging the rapidity with which the spot is formed, and the shade of the color produced, will soon enable one to tell the condition of the battery fairly accurately, whether it is nearly dead, half charged, or fully charged. This method is applicable to both storage batteries and dry cells, although the wires must be further apart in the case of storage batteries.

Cleaning Crystals with Alcohol

The sensitiveness of a crystal determines to a great extent the receiving range of a set. Some crystals are much better than others in this respect, but even good ones are soon spoiled by improper care. Air causes the surface of the crystal to oxidize gradually, which of course decreases its efficiency. Dust particles in the air also lodge on the surface and adhere to it. The most trouble is, however, caused by handling the crystal, which is imperceptible to the naked eye, insulates the surface of the crystal, and for this reason crystals should never be touched. An excellent method of cleaning crystals, which will in many cases restore the original sensitiveness, is to give them a bath in alcohol, using an old toothbrush to scrub them.

Salt Is Tougher than Steel

Strands of wire made from ordinary rock salt by a Russian chemist are reported to be tougher than those of steel. The inventor expects the process to aid in hardening and strengthening common metals, and believes that the treatment, if applied to other minerals, may result in materials that would permit moving machinery to travel at much greater speeds. The scientist is said to put raw rock salt under high heat pressures, thus changing its form and increasing its flexibility and strength.

Towing Small Boats

When the stream is flowing so fast or the wind blowing so hard that it is difficult to make headway by rowing, the simple stunt shown in the drawing offers an easy way of towing the boat along the bank or shore. Tie the boat line to both bow and stern, as shown. By paying out on the bow part of the line and holding in the stern line, the boat can be kept nearly parallel with the bank, while if only a bow line is used the current or wind will cause the bow to dig into the bank, making towing difficult. If a narrow creek is encountered, its mouth can be crossed in the boat as follows: Let out the bow and haul in the stern; this will cause the boat to lie close against the mouth. Fasten the towline to an oar pushed slantingly (toward the water) into the bank. After walking across the creek in the boat, the oar is pulled out, which can readily be done on account of the slant at which it is placed.

EXAMINATIONS FOR PRIZES TO BE ON JULY 15

Annual Examination to Decide the Winner of Winchester Prize

The examination which will decide the winner of the Walter H. Winchester memorial prize award to the Burleigh County pupil who shall excel in arithmetic, will be given at the Will school next Tuesday, July 15, with Miss Madge Rukey, county superintendent of schools, in charge.

Nine pupils completing the eighth grade in Burleigh county are chosen to take the examination, which is in arithmetic; six from the rural and village schools of the county, and three from the Bismarck schools. The pupils chosen are those showing the greatest proficiency in arithmetic.

In grading the papers the following points are considered: clearness of expression, showing arithmetical reasoning, accuracy and care in details, and neatness. The questions are prepared by some one chosen by the county superintendent, who together with the judges will not be announced until after the completion of the test.

The award, which is $25.00, is one which has been created in memory of Walter H. Winchester, who was a former county superintendent of schools in Burleigh county, and who during his long service as judge of the district court, never lost interest in the schools and edu-

PROSECUTION OF MANY OIL FIRMS, PLAN

Attorney General Stone Announces Intention at American Bar Meeting

Philadelphia, July 9.—Attorney General Harlan F. Stone, addressing the annual convention of the American Bar association last night, declared that "notwithstanding the improvement actual and potential, in our static law," the actual administration of justice in the United States was not improving and that there was multiplying evidence that it was in a period of decline, which began before the world war and was greatly accelerated by the war.

"That decline," he said, "is not due either to the form or substance of our legal structure, which has been steadily improving for a generation, but it is to be attributed rather to our failure to develop that facility in translating legal rules into actual control of action which is essential to an adequate legal system."

"The American Bar should take a positive leadership for improvement of law administration," Mr. Stone announced he would meet today in Washington with a committee from the National Association of States Attorneys General to outline a course of procedure in the prosecution of more than 60 oil companies under the anti-trust law.

JEWETT QUILTS WHEAT POOL

Tenders Resignation to American Wheat Growers Association

Minneapolis, July 9.—George C. Jewett, general manager of the American Wheat Growers Association since its organization in 1920, tendered his resignation yesterday to the board of directors, effective as of July 1, last.

W. J. Brown, president of the organization, will have active charge of the association's affairs until the directors select a successor to Mr. Jewett.

Forty million bushels of wheat, or an increase of 100 percent over the 20,000,000 bushels of the 1923 crop handled, will be gathered for sale in the organization's pool of the 1924 crop according to an estimate by Mr. Brown.

President Brown said the association had just finished distributing the last $50,000 of a $4,000,000 payment to Montana wheat farmers for their 1923 yield and that distribution of payments to Minnesota farmers is to be completed this month.

The current year has been marked by a phenomenal growth in membership, said Mr. Brown. States represented in the organization include Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana, Washington, Oregon, Colorado and Nebraska.

VETERAN WILL APPEAR HERE IN 'LIGHTNIN'

Charges E. Evans, Who Takes
Part of Judge. on Stage
For Many Years

Memory's door is gently opened for older players by the announcement that Charles E. Evans, veteran of the old Hayt forces, is coming to town as the Reno judge in John Golden's production of "Lightnin'" at the Auditorium July 16.

Evans starred for upwards of twenty years in "A Parlor Match" which the late Charles K. Hoyt wrote especially for him and his partner, Bill (Ole Hess) Hoyt, and the charming French twins, their wives. It was in this play that Anna Higd made her first American appearance at the Herald Square Theatre. Evans heard her sing her famous success, "Won't You Come and Play With Me?" at the London Palace Music Hall and he induced her to come to New York as a special interpolated feature in the farce.

Five years ago, when Evans transferred his activities from the stage to the screen, he "discovered" Katharine Macdonald as a potential movie star and in association with Samuel E. Rork, an old theatrical comrade, he promoted a corporation to exploit her productions. Evans withdrew with a fortune after completing her first pictures, "The Thunderbolt" and "Bark" continued to handle, "The American Beauty" up to last season.

After the death of his partner, Hoyt, in 1894, Evans took a ten-year lease on the Herald Square Theatre. He assigned the last three years to the late Sam S. Shubert, thus giving the Shuberts their first foothold as New York managers.

Despite his long and varied career Evans looks no more than fifty and his present engagement in "Lightnin'" was sought to relieve the monotony of retirement from active work. His home, in Hollywood, is one of the show places of the movie colony.

EXPERTS HOPE FOR LESS RUST IN NO. DAKOTA

none of these were infected with the cluster-cup stage of the black stem rust.

Heavy infection on barberry plants in Michigan and other states have been reported. Reports were received of barberry infection in southeastern Minnesota May 12 and June 2, and these dates were declared to be later than usual for the first appearance of the rust. Lateness of barberry plants, together with dry, cool weather early in June which was not favorable for infection of wheat plants from the barberry stage of the rust, are among the important causes for the lack of rust thus far, according to authorities.

About a week from the time the wheat plant is infected before the first pustules are produced, Miss Weniger explains. Usually about two weeks elapse from the time rust is first reported in the state until it becomes widespread. Warm weather with heavy dews is said to be most favorable for its development.

Many samples of wheat have been sent to the plant pathology department at the Agricultural college from farmers in all parts of the state who feared they had rust in their fields, according to Miss Weniger. The diseases most commonly found on these plants were varieties of Helminthosporium blight, common every year and causing little damage except in certain varieties of durum. This disease produces small, brown, yellowish spots in the leaves, but there are no pustules or breaking through of the surface of the leaves.

Black chaff, a bacterial disease which was next to black stem rust in severity last year, has not yet made its appearance, and usually is not manifest until the wheat has been headed out for some time. Other common plant diseases in North Dakota, possibly excepting loose smut and flax wilt, are not so prevalent as in previous years, according to Miss Weniger, who attributes their absence to the late season and the healthy growth of small grains.

"The terms 'red rust,' 'black rust' and 'leaf rust' are often confusing," says Miss Weniger. "Red rust and 'black rust' are not two diseases, but simply two stages of the same disease, the correct name of which is black stem rust of wheat. It is during the red stage that the damage is caused, instead of the black as is commonly believed. Leaf rust is a separate disease from black stem rust."

CRAIG PLEAS NOT ENTERED

Lafayette, N. D., July 10.—No pleas were entered in district court here, recently by Ray W. Craig, former LaBou banker charged with embezzlement and forgery. The defendant was arraigned on a charge of forgery Tuesday and the court granted motion to reinstate a bond of $2,000 declared forfeited in June when Mr. Craig failed to appear for trial. It was stated that he was detained in Florida because of the serious illness of his child.

Following his arraignment for forgery, attorneys for the defense made a motion to dismiss on the grounds of lack of jurisdiction. This motion was overruled. The defense then offered a general demurrer to the information and the afternoon was spent in arguing this motion.

Hegeman Laboratory is Dedicated To Conduct War On Tuberculosis

The dedication of the Hegeman Memorial Laboratory at Mt. McGregor near Saratoga Springs, N. Y., marks a step forward in the fight on tuberculosis, according to the medical authorities who participated in the ceremonies recently.

The new stone structure is a harmonious architectural feature of the sanatorium group of twenty-two buildings, which the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company maintains for the benefit of the sick among the 30,000 of its field and home office staff.

It was provided for by a fund of $300,000 in the will of the late John Rogers Hegeman, president of the company from 1891 to 1918, to whom the building is a memorial.

"We hope—we even expect," declared Haley Fiske, now president of the company, "that some discovery will be made here that will be connected with the name of the donor and will be of lasting benefit to future generations."

Dr. Edward R. Baldwin, head of the Sanatorium at Saratoga Lake and one of the foremost authorities on tuberculosis, welcomed the new laboratory into the field of scientific research. "The sanatorium represents what we know about tuberculosis," he declared. "The laboratory represents what we do not know, but must find out."

An interesting figure at the ceremony was the Rev. Father P. N. Waggett, famous British scientist and theologian who studied with the great Pasteur, foremost scientist of the nineteenth century. "Only today we are beginning to understand the greatness of Pasteur," he said. "The world knows nothing of his greatest men, the unseen workers, secret, cloistered, hidden, world-forgotten, they pursue their studies tirelessly until one day the world learns that they have discovered a cure for some disease."

The Metropolitan sanatorium has been the chief means, directly through its treatments, and indirectly, through the instruction passed on to fellow workers by former patients, in reducing by 50 per cent the death rate from tuberculosis among the company's employees, within a period of ten years.

their department head receiving $10,000 a year. Iowa and Missouri are tied for second highest with $7,000. The white Illinois, with $7,000, Michigan, Minnesota, and South Dakota with $6,000 come fourth, sixth and seventh. Nebraska, paying their department head $3,996 is eighth on the list and North Dakota, paying her Chief Engineer $3,492 a year is the lowest.

Wisconsin and Minnesota with $6,000 a year, Missouri with $5,000, Iowa with $4,800, Illinois with $4,000, South Dakota with $3,900, and Montana with $3,600 are ahead of North Dakota in the amount paid their assistant chief engineers. Nebraska paying her assistant $2,400 is the only one among the eight states who have assistant chief engineers, that is lower than North Dakota with her salary of $3,300 for the assistant Chief Engineer.

Department heads in North Dakota are paid but from $2,700 to $3,000 a year while in the neighboring states the salaries for these officials range from $3,000 to $4,800, the majority of them being about $4,500. Division Engineers in North Dakota are paid but $2,640 while in the other states they range from $2,800 to $4,000.

Resident Engineers in North Dakota receive but $1,800 to $2,100 in salary while in the majority of the neighboring states the salaries for these employees average from $2,100 to $2,600.

SELECT BRYAN

Illinois. Gaining by ones and twos, his total stood at 34 on the 5th and on the 6th it went to 55 by the addition of Louisiana. Then for 13 roll calls it stood still.

Davis' Votes Rose Steadily
By this time the deadlock between Smith and McAdoo had become a grim tug of war, but Mr. Davis' votes rose steadily to a peak of 129 on the 23rd ballot. For a ballot the total remained stationary, and then it dropped slowly to 38 on the 58th ballot. That was his lowest point between the opening ballots and the end, for despite the Ralston opposition, Davis climbed from 60 on the 59th, to 76 on the 67th and 78 on the 74th. After a few more ups and downs within a margin of 15 votes, he had won the 96th ballot.

At that point Ralston had reached his highest total, and his sudden withdrawal from the race proved a windfall to the Davis boom, which, when the roll was called for the 96th time, had gathered in enough from through scattered sources to bring Davis up to 171 and on the 100th roll call the last before adjournment, Mr. Davis' total stood at 203.

McAdoo and Smith both were out indefinitely, but the tired delegates were not yet certain where they should turn. The states standing at the head of the column temporized, either standing by their favorites or scattering their strength widely. But when Maryland was called, Governor Ritchie, who himself had been given the solid vote of his state through an even hundred roll calls, mounted a chair under the Maryland standard at the rear of the hall and shouted up 16 votes for Davis.

Finds Himself in Lead
Before the cheering was over, Mississippi had followed the lead of Maryland, and a little later North Carolina gave Davis 20 out of her 24. Ohio gave him 23; Pennsylvania 19; South Carolina 18. Virginia, breaking the solid 24 she had been holding for her favorite son, Senator Glass, gave half of them to the son of her neighbor on the West. New York took notice of his candidacy for the first time, giving him a solitary one from her 90. In a field of 16 candidates, he had received on this roll call, 316 votes, and was in the lead for the first time.

The one hundred and second ballot saw the total swelled to 415, mainly by increases from the states that already had been voting small groups for him. At the same time he broke into several more of the disintegrating McAdoo states. As the clerks began to call the roll for the 103rd and last ballot, larger and larger blocks of delegates came sweeping into camp and before the roll call was completed, he had more than a majority.

In the scramble to change votes to him that followed, no one knew exactly when the total had reached the 730 necessary to nominate. A dozen delegations were seeking in the universal tumult to get recognition and to record unanimous votes for Davis. George E. Brennan, speaking for Illinois, swung the state's entire 58 into the column of the winner. Iowa withdrew Meredith and changed solidly to Davis. California revised her vote to give him 21 of her 26.

The count had gone far past two-thirds and the convention floor was in a tumult as the delegates realized that their long task was done at last.

Mr. McAdoo, after the convention, sent from his hotel to Mr. Davis a telegram saying merely: "Please accept congratulations on your nomination."

His principal floor leaders disappeared completely from the convention hall as the balloting approached its final stage, and the central group of McAdoo crusaders of the colored gium and with drawn faces while the convention was making its final choice.

McAdoo headquarters, which for three weeks had been one of the busiest places in the convention picture, was a picture of almost complete desolation, as it was said that the former treasury secretary and members of his family would sail within a few days for a trip abroad.

Bryan for Ticket
William Jennings Bryan, who had worked among the delegates to a swing to Davis, also expressed his disappointment but issued a statement later saying tersely that he would "support the ticket." The move to place his brother in nomination for the vice-presidency later appeared to greatly revive his spirits.

The convention that met last night to select a vice-presidential candidate was in quite a different mood than has been its daily habit since the battle began. The die-hards on all sides were absent but most of the delegates were shaking hands, laughing and chatting. Smiling features had replaced grudging hands and happy greetings in the place of fighting words.

As usual, there was an epidemic of statements on the outcome. Everybody issued one. Only a few were worth reporting. Among the latter was one by Wayne Wheeler.

"The wets can get no comfort in the nomination of John W. Davis. His record is law enforcement."

Chairman Walsh, whom the convention sought to nominate this afternoon for vice-president and who last night issued a statement declaring that he would not accept the nomination if made, did not come to the night session and left Representative Bartley of Kentucky in the chair.

Meredith Declines
Meanwhile E. T. Meredith, secretary of agriculture in President Wilson's cabinet, authorized the Associated Press to say that under no circumstances would he accept the vice-presidential nomination.

JUST WANTED PARTS
Thieves who stole a Ford touring car on July 4th, the property of E. F. Eberle, employee of the Bingenheimer Mercantile company, didn't want the car.

They had a car of their own. And all they wanted was parts. Mr. Eberle recovered his car recently. It was found in a pasture on the hills southwest of Sunny. That is, what was left of it.

The car had been stripped of its hood, the spark plugs, all five tires and rims, seat cushions and floor boards, tools, some of the wiring and other fittings to the value of approximately $150.

MOVIE DIRECTOR
Earle W. Peterson, formerly of Mandan, has been engaged to assist in directing the filming of six pictures for one of the leading companies of the west coast, according to Mrs. L. N. Cary who returned from California yesterday and who was a guest at the Peterson home.

What the director has in mind is playing juvenile roles with a company which produced Ibsen plays. He tried of the stage and came to Mandan to make his home with his brother, A. H. Peterson, now cashier of the Farmers State Bank being located here, and leaving an assistant postmaster for several years and some years in the furniture business he left about a year for the coast.

Imperial Wiz of K. K. K. Evades the Spotlight

By Harry B. Hunt
NEA Service Writer

New York, July 10.—One distinguished visitor to New York during the Democratic convention who didn't try to get special passes to Madison Square Garden and who evaded, rather than sought, the spotlight, was Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan.

Evans, visiting the convention city incognito, registering as one of a "party" with friends from Washington, D. C., was more completely shrouded from sight during the convention than he would have been wearing the cap and gown of his mystic order.

But he kept in close touch with the proceedings by radio, particularly during the fight to name the Klan specifically in the platform denunciation of organizations fostering religious and racial hatreds.

Evans, who is a dentist and once pulled teeth down in Texas for a living, occupied a suite of five rooms at an uptown skyscraper hotel close to the center of political activities.

Not so exclusive in his clannishness was Walter Bossert, Klan grand dragon of Indiana and imperial organizer for the Kluxers in 20 other states.

While he didn't attempt to get chummy with the Al Smith delegates, nor even call on Pattangall of Maine or Quigley of Massachusetts to convert them to his opinion of the Klan as an institution, he did browse about a bit and give interested New Yorkers an opportunity to see just what a real live, flesh-and-blood klansman looks like.

They saw, in Bossert, a smiling, pleasant, smooth-shaven gent of the traveling salesman type. A bit inclined to stoutness, he carries also an air of prosperity and success, as though he had made a go at selling his line and had cashed in a comfortable competence in so doing.

Before he took up his organizing labors for the Klan, Bossert was a small-town lawyer in Indiana. His first experience in organization work was in helping Will H. Hayes overhaul and get in running order the G. O. P. machine in the Hoosier state.

Whether there was anything political in Bossert's mind when he turned organizer for the Klan, perhaps he himself doesn't know. Many have believed he believed the Klan offered a short-cut to political influence and power. At least it has given him that.

Bossert and the Klan were deciding factors in the recent Republican primary in Indiana. When Bossert visited Washington he had no diffi-

The figures are compiled on a basis of five divisions of employees: the Chief Engineer, the assistant Chief Engineer, the department heads, the division engineers and the resident engineers.

CIRCUS CROWD BRINGS LITTLE TROUBLE HERE

Police Report Few Cases Handled with Thousands in The City For Day

SOME ARRESTS MADE

The Robbins Brothers circus, which showed in Bismarck yesterday afternoon and last night, reported 12,846 admissions to the circus and the side show, according to a statement of the manager to Chief of Police Martinson last night, just before the show left for Jamestown. In the afternoon there was an overflow crowd, and it was necessary to give a second show, while in the evening the circus seats were filled to overflowing. The show the day before was at Washburn, where also it played to a capacity crowd, it was reported. From Jamestown it goes to New Rockford.

Little trouble was reported by the police, although big crowds usually attract their quota of pickpockets and other criminals. All the men on the local force were on duty yesterday and late last night, putting in many extra hours. The only case of possible theft reported, according to Chief Martinson, was by an out of town man who lost an overcoat, which might have been stolen or lost. The circus management cooperated with the police, Chief Martinson said.

The lack of trouble indicates the close watch kept by Chief Martinson and Sheriff Hedstrom and their forces on suspicious strangers.

Two men were being held in jail to await charges today. They gave their names as William Carr and Frank Kramer, and came here from Montana. They were picked up on Main street yesterday morning. Kramer had a new .32 calibre revolver.

Chief of Police Martinson and Deputy Sheriff R. Phelps arrested a man said to be Chester Rachford, 23, wanted in Oakes, Iowa, for desertion. He was employed with the circus, and his identity was learned late last night by the officers after considerable effort to pick him out.

A woman from the country reported to the police that she had lost a suitcase, but it was found she had left it in the N. P. park where she and others in her family had eaten lunch. The only police call for last night was for one drunk, Chief Martinson, said and he felt pleased this morning when, he said, no robberies had been reported.

The police department has recovered a gun belonging to August Melton, which was stolen a year ago by a youth in the city. The youth took the gun to Des Moines, Iowa, left it with a friend and later returned. He confessed to the robbery and the Des Moines police were notified. A line was pulled today saying that they had the gun. The youth's identity was not divulged, and it is uncertain whether charges will be pressed against him, because of his age.

IRRIGATION IS BAD FOR SOIL, IS CLAIM MADE

Colorado College Head Predicts Return of Many Acres to Sterility

Fort Collins, Colo., July 10.—Belief that the millions of dollars spent on irrigation of arid lands of the West may accomplish no permanent good unless drastic measures are taken to enforce proper methods of distribution of water, has been expressed by Dr. Charles A. Lory, president of Colorado Agricultural College.

"In some of the older irrigation districts," Dr. Lory said, "water has drained the natural salts from the soil, profoundly affecting its character. It also has caused an intense and a bacterial flora which takes nitrogen from the air, giving an excess to the ground."

Nitrogen, Dr. Lory explained, in proper quantities is beneficial to soil, but applied in excess, may sterilize it.

No satisfactory means of combating this soil sterilization through excessive and improper irrigation has been found, Dr. Lory said. He pointed out that hundreds of thousands of acres of reclaimed lands throughout the West have actually deteriorated from year to year and will eventually become worthless under present care.

CIRCUS CROWD
BRINGS LITTLE
TROUBLE HEREPolice Report Few Cases
Handled with Thousands in The City For Day

SOME ARRESTS MADE

The Robbins Brothers circus, which showed in Bismarck yesterday afternoon and last night, reported 12,846 admissions to the circus and the side show, according to a statement of the manager to Chief of Police Martineson last night, just before the show left for Jamestown. In the afternoon there was an overflow crowd, and it was necessary to give a second show, while in the evening the circus seats were filled to overflowing. The show the day before was at Wishek, where also it played to a capacity crowd, it was reported. From Jamestown it goes to New Rockford.

Little trouble was reported by the police, although big crowds usually attract their quota of pickpockets and other criminals. All the men on the local force were on duty yesterday and late last night, putting in many extra hours. The only case of possible theft reported, according to Chief Martineson, was by an out of town man who lost an overcoat, which might have been stolen or lost. The circus management cooperated with the police, Chief Martineson said.

The lack of trouble indicates the close watch kept by Chief Martineson and Sheriff Hedstrom and their forces on suspicious strangers.

Two men were being held in jail to await charges today. They gave their names as William Carr and Frank Kramer, and came here from Montana. They were picked up on Main street yesterday morning. Kramer had a new .32 calibre revolver. Chief of Police Martineson and Deputy Sheriff R. Phelps arrested a man said to be Chester Rachford, 23, wanted in Oakes, Iowa, for desertion. He was employed with the circus, and his identity was learned late last night by the officers after considerable effort to pick him out. A woman from the country reported to the police that she had lost a suitcase, but it was found she had left it in the N. P. park where she and others in her family had eaten lunch. The only police call for last night was for one drunk, Chief Martineson, said, and he felt pleased this morning when, he said, no robberies had been reported.

The police department has recovered a gun belonging to August Mellon, which was stolen a year ago by a youth in the city. The youth took the gun to Des Moines, Iowa, left it with a friend and later returned. He confessed the robbery and the Des Moines police were notified. A wire was received today saying that they had the gun. The youth's identity was not divulged, and it is uncertain whether charges will be pressed against him, because of his age.

IRRIGATION IS BAD FOR SOIL,
IS CLAIM MADEColorado College Head Predicts Return of Many Acres to Sterility

Fort Collins, Col., July 10.—Belief that the millions of dollars spent on irrigation of arid lands of the West may accomplish no permanent good unless drastic measures are taken to enforce proper methods of distribution of water has been expressed by Dr. Charles A. Lory, president of Colorado Agricultural College.

"In some of the older irrigation districts," Dr. Lory said, "water has drained the natural salts from the soil, profoundly affecting its character. It also has caused an increase in a bacterial flora which takes nitrogen from the air, giving an excess to the ground."

Nitrogen, Dr. Lory explained, in proper quantities is beneficial to soil, but applied in excess, may sterilize it. No satisfactory means of combating this soil sterilization through excessive and improper irrigation has been found, Dr. Lory said. He pointed out that hundreds of thousands of acres of reclaimed lands throughout the West have actually deteriorated from year to year and will eventually become worthless under present care.

Much of the Greely potato region has become unfit for this crop, due to long years of irrigation, Dr. Lory said, and Rocky Ford cantaloupes, famous throughout the country for their quality, are being infested with disease, due to over-irrigation, Lory alleged.

Figures presented by Dr. Lory warned farmers that unless they find some means of correcting present irrigation procedure, much of the plains region of Colorado and other Western States may within a few generations again be the stamping ground of buffalo, antelope, coyotes and rattlesnakes, making their homes on deserted farm property.

Little dusky Dorothy became an orphan when she was only 11 months old. A negro Baptist church in Los Angeles decided to place her in a family for adoption, the family being selected by a drawing. Dorothy Mackall, movie actress, bought 50 tickets from her negro maid and won the baby. She has given the little girl to a family of the child's own race, with a promise to help support her through babyhood.

VETERAN WILL APPEAR HERE IN 'LIGHTNIN'

Charges E. Evans, Who Takes Part of Judge, on Stage For Many Years

Memory's door is gently opened for older players by the announcement that Charles E. Evans, veteran of the old Hoyt farces, is coming to town as the Reno judge in John Golden's production of "Lightnin'" at the Auditorium July 16.

Evans starred for upwards of twenty years in "Farlow Match" which the late Charles K. Hoyt wrote especially for him and his partner, Bill (Old Head) Hoyt and the charming French twins, their wives. It was in this play that Anna Hgld made her first American appearance at the Herald Square Theatre. Evans heard her sing her famous success, "Won't You Come and Play With Me?" at the London Palace Music Hall and he induced her to come to New York as a special interpolated feature in the farce.

Five years ago, when Evans transferred his activities from the stage to the screen, he "discovered" Katharine MacDonald as a potential movie star and in association with Samuel E. Rork, an old theatrical comrade, he promoted a corporation to exploit her production. Evans withdrew with a fortune after completing her first pictures, "The Thunderbolt" and Rork continued to handle, "The American Beauty" up to last season.

After the death of his partner, Hoyt, in 1904, Evans took a ten-year lease on the Herald Square Theatre. He assigned the last three years to the late Sam S. Shubert, thus giving the Shuberts their first foothold as New York managers.

Despite his long and varied career, Evans looks no more than fifty and his present engagement in "Lightnin'" was sought to relieve the monotony of retirement from active work. His home in Hollywood is one of the show places of the movie colony.

none of these were infected with the cluster-cup stage of the black stem rust.

Heavy infection on barberry plants in Michigan and other states have been reported. Reports were received of barberry infection in southeastern Minnesota May 12 and June 2, and these dates were delayed to be later than usual for the first appearance of the rust. Late-ness of barberry plants, together with dry, cool weather early in June which was not favorable for infection of wheat plants from the barberry stage of the rust, are among the important causes for the lack of rust thus far, according to authorities.

About a week from the time the wheat plant is infected before the first pustules are produced, Miss Weniger explains. Usually about two weeks elapse from the time rust is first reported in the state until it becomes widespread. Warm weather with heavy dews is said to be most favorable for its development.

Many samples of wheat have been sent to the plant pathology department at the Agricultural college from farmers in all parts of the state who feared they had rust in their fields, according to Miss Weniger. The diseases most commonly found on these plants were varieties of Helminthosporium blight, common every year and causing little damage except in certain varieties of durum. This disease produces small, brown or yellowish spots in the leaves, but there are no pustules or breaking through of the surface of the leaves.

Black Chaff Black chaff, a bacterial disease which was next to black stem rust in severity last year, has not yet made its appearance and usually is not manifest until the wheat has been headed out for some time. Other common plant diseases in North Dakota, possibly excepting loose smut and flax wilt, are not so prevalent as in previous years, according to Miss Weniger, who attributes their absence to the late season and the healthy growth of small grains.

The term "rust" is confusing, says Miss Weniger. "Red" rust and "black" rust are not two diseases, but simply two stages of the same disease, the correct name of which is black stem rust of wheat. It is during the red stage that the damage is caused, instead of the black as is commonly believed. Leaf rust is a separate disease from black stem rust.

Hegeman Laboratory is Dedicated To Conduct War On Tuberculosis

The dedication of the Hegeman Memorial Laboratory at Mt. McGregor near Saratoga Springs, N. Y., marks a step forward in the fight on tuberculosis, according to the medical authorities who participated in the ceremonies recently.

The new stone structure is a harmonious architectural feature of the sanatorium group of twenty-two buildings, which the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company maintains for the benefit of the sick among the $6,000 of its field and home office staff.

It was provided for by a fund of $200,000 in the will of the late John Rogers Hegeman, president of the company from 1891 to 1913, to whom the building is a memorial.

The great Pasteur, foremost scientist of the nineteenth century, "Only today we are beginning to understand the greatness of Pasteur," he said. "The world knows nothing of his greatest men, the unseen workers, secret, cloistered, hidden, world-forgotten, they pursue their studies tirelessly until they have discovered a cure for some disease."

The Metropolitan sanatorium has been the chief means, directly through its treatments, and indirectly, through the instruction passed on to fellow workers by former patients, in reducing by 50 per cent the death rate from tuberculosis among the company's employees, within a period of ten years.

His department head receiving $10,000 a year. Iowa and Missouri are tied for second highest with $7,500 a piece, while Illinois, with $7,000, Michigan, Minnesota and South Dakota with $6,000 come fourth, sixth and seventh. Nebraska, paying their department head $3,906, is eighth on the list and North Dakota, paying her Chief Engineer but $3,492 a year is the lowest among the nine.

Wisconsin and Minnesota with $6,000 a year, Missouri with $6,000, Iowa with $4,800, Illinois with $4,000, South Dakota with $3,900, and Montana with $3,600 are ahead of North Dakota in the amount paid their assistant chief engineers. Nebraska paying her assistant $2,400 is the only one among the eight states who have assistant chief engineers, that is lower than North Dakota with her salary of $3,300 for the assistant Chief Engineer.

Department heads in North Dakota are paid but from $2,700 to $3,000 a year while in the neighboring states the salaries for these officials range from $3,000 to $4,800. The majority of them being about $4,500. Division Engineers in North Dakota are paid but $2,640 while in the other states they range from $2,800 to $4,000.

Resident Engineers in North Dakota receive but $1,800 to $2,100 in salary while in the majority of the neighboring states the salaries for these employees average from $2,100 to $2,600.

Illinois 4. Gaining by ones and twos, his total stood at 34 on the 5th and on the 6th it went to 55 by the addition of Louisiana. Then for 13 roll calls it stood still.

Davis' Votes Rose Steadily By this time the deadlock between Smith and McAdoo had become a grim tug of war, but Mr. Davis' votes rose steadily to a peak of 129 on the 23rd ballot. For a ballot the total remained stationary, and then it dropped slowly to 38 on the 58th ballot. That was his lowest point between the opening ballots and the end, for despite the Ralston opposition, Davis climbed from 60 on the 59th, to 76 on the 67th and 78 on the 74th. After a few more ups and downs within a margin of 15 votes, he had 68 on the 93rd.

At that point Ralston had reached his highest total, and his sudden withdrawal from the race proved a windfall to the Davis boom, which, when the roll was called for the 96th time, had gathered in enough from widely scattered sources to bring Davis up to 171 and on the 100th roll call, the last before adjournment, Mr. Davis' total stood at 203.

McAdoo and Smith both were out indefinitely, but the tired delegates were not yet certain where they should turn. The states standing at the head of the column temporized, either standing by their favorites or scattering their strength widely. But when Maryland was called, Governor Ritchie, who himself had been given the solid vote of his state through an even hundred roll calls, mounted a chair under the Maryland standard at the rear of the hall and shouted up 16 votes for Davis.

Finda Himself in Lead Before the cheering was over, Mississippi had followed the lead of Maryland and a little later North Carolina gave Davis 20 out of her 24. Ohio gave him 22; Pennsylvania 19; South Carolina 18. Virginia, breaking the solid 24 she had been hoarding for her favorite son, Senator Glass, gave half of them to the son of her neighbor on the West. New York took notice of his candidacy for the first time, giving him a solitary one from her 90. In a field of 16 candidates, he had received on this roll call, 316 votes, and was in the lead for the first time.

The one hundred and second ballot saw the total swell to 415, mainly by virtue of the states that already had been voting small groups for him. At the same time he broke into several more of the disintegrating McAdoo states.

As the clerks began to call the roll for the 103rd and last ballot, larger and larger blocks of delegates came sweeping into camp and before the roll call was completed, he had more than a majority.

Scramble for Bandwagon In the scramble to change votes to him that followed, no one knew exactly when the total had reached the 730 necessary to nominate. A dozen delegations were seeking in the universal tumult to get recognition and to record unanimous votes for Davis. George E. Brennan, speaking for Illinois, swung the state's entire 58 into the column of the winner. Iowa withdrew McAdoo and changed solidly to Davis. California revised her vote to give him 21 of her 26.

Past Two-thirds The count had gone far past two-thirds and the convention floor was in a tumult as the delegates realized that their long task was done at last.

Mr. McAdoo, after the convention, sent from his hotel to Mr. Davis a telegram saying: "Please accept congratulations on your nomination."

His principal floor leaders disappeared completely from the convention hall as the balloting approached its final stage, and the central group of McAdoo crusaders among the delegates sat glum and with drawn faces while the convention "was making its final choice."

McAdoo headquarters, which for three weeks had been one of the busiest places in the convention picture, was a picture of almost complete desolation, and it was said that the former treasury secretary and members of his family would sail within a few days for a trip abroad.

Bryan for Ticket William Jennings Bryan, who had worked among the delegates to prevent a swing to Davis, also expressed a disappointment but issued a statement later saying tersely that he would "support the ticket." The move to place his brother in nomination for the vice-presidency later appeared to greatly revive his spirits.

The convention that met last night to select a vice-presidential candidate was in quite a different mood than has been its daily habit since the start of the election. The delegates on all sides were about but most of the delegates were shaking hands, laughing and "chatting." Smiling features had replaced protruding hands and happy greetings in the place of fighting words.

As usual, there was an epidemic of statements on the outcome. Everybody issued one. Only a few were worth reporting. Among the latter was one by Wayne Wheeler, he said:

"The wets can get no comfort in the nomination of John W. Davis. His record is law enforcement."

Chairman Walsh, whom the convention sought to nominate this afternoon for vice-president and who last night issued a statement declaring that he would not accept the nomination if made, did not come to the night session and left Representative Bartley of Kentucky in the chair.

Meredith Declines Meanwhile E. F. Meredith, secretary of agriculture in President Wilson's cabinet, authorized the Associated Press to say that under no circumstances would he accept the vice-presidential nomination.

MANDAN NEWS JUST WANTED PARTS Thieves who stole a Ford touring car on July 4th, the property of E. F. Eberle, employee of the Bingenheimer Mercantile company, didn't want the car.

They had a car of their own. And all they wanted was parts. Mr. Eberle recovered his car recently. It was found in a pasture on the hills southwest of Sunney. That is, what was left of it.

The car had been stripped of its hood, the spark plugs, all five tires and rims, seat cushions and floor boards, tools, some of the wiring and other fittings to the value of approximately $150.

MOVIE DIRECTOR Earle W. Peterson, formerly of Mandan, has been engaged to assist in directing the filming of six pictures for one of the leading companies of the west coast, according to Mrs. L. N. Cary who returned from California yesterday and who was a guest at the Peterson home.

As a young man Mr. Peterson played juvenile roles with a company which produced loose plays. He tired of the stage and came to Mandan to make his home with his brother, A. H. Peterson, now cashier of the Farmers State Bank being located here. After serving as assistant postmaster for several years and some years in the furniture business he left about a year for the coast.

Imperial Wiz of K. K. K. Evades the Spotlight

By Harry B. Hunt NEA Service Writer

New York, July 10.—One distinguished visitor to New York during the Democratic convention who didn't try to get special passes to Madison Square Garden and who evaded, rather than sought, the spotlight, was Hiram W. Evans, the imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan.

Evans, visiting the convention city incognito, registering as one of a "party" with friends from Washington, D. C., was more completely shrouded from sight during the convention than he would have been wearing the cap and gown of his mystic order.

But he kept in close touch with the proceedings by radio, particularly during the fight to name the Klan specifically in the platform denunciation of organizations fostering religious and racial hatreds.

Evans, who is a dentist and once pulled teeth down in Texas for a living, occupied a suite of five rooms at an uptown skyscraper hotel close to the center of political activities.

Not so exclusive in his elaneness was Walter Bossert, Klan grand dragon of Indiana and imperial organizer for the Kluxers in 20 other states.

While he didn't attempt to get chummy with the Al Smith delegates, nor even call on Fattigall of Maine or Quigley of Massachusetts to convert them to his opinion of the Klan as an institution, he did browse about a bit and gave interested New Yorkers an opportunity to see just what a real live, flesh and blood klansman looks like.

They saw in Bossert, a smiling pleasant, well-dressed man, a bit inclined to stoutness, he carries an air of prosperity and success, although he had made a go at sending his line and had ended in a comfortable competence, so doing.

Before he took up his organizing duties for the Ku Klux Bossert was a small town lawyer in Indiana. His first experience in organization work was in fighting Will H. Hays over haul and put in running order the G. O. P. machine in the Hoover state.

Whether there was anything political in Bossert's mind when he turned organizer for the Klan, just how he himself doesn't know. Many, however, believe he believed the Klan offered a shortcut to political influence and power. At least it has given him that.

Bossert and the Klan were dead in fact in the recent Republican primary in Indiana. When Bossert visited Washington he had no difficulty in arranging a conference with Senator James E. Watson, who previously had announced he would have no dealings with Klan or klansman. Later it was understood that Bossert had "sold" Watson on the Klan.

Anyway, as a good salesman who is interested in knowing his "line," Bossert didn't miss a move in the test of Klan strength as he was staged in the Democratic tug-of-war. He says it's still a salable line.

Folks who weren't taking the convention too seriously had a good time up until the second week of the proceedings.

Plenty of liquid refreshments were on hand and not too many questions were asked or identifications required before obtaining it.

Then E. C. Yellowdy, district chief for Rev. Haines and the prohibition outfit, began turning things topsy-turvy.

Cafes adjacent to the hotels housing convention headquarters were raided and the liquid joy confiscated. Proprietors and barkeeps were given a ride in the wagon and placed under heavy hand. In some cases the well being of not the pleasure of the visitors were protected by vacating out "padlock" injunctions and locking up the premises.

Highballs that had sold freely at 75 cents a throw jumped to $1 and were hard to find at that.

And the final blow came when it was announced that any visitors, whether delegates and convention guests or not, who were found in any place serving liquor, would be held in contempt of court. Nobody had much rest for liquor after that!

Salaries for Highway Work Not High Here

Salaries expended in the building of good roads in North Dakota are the lowest among nine neighboring states, according to figures compiled by the state Highway Commissioner and released today, with the exception of the salary of the assistant Chief Engineer who is paid $2,900 a year in North Dakota and but $2,100 in Nebraska and the salaries of the various resident engineers, who are paid from $1,450 to $2,500 in South Dakota and from $1,800 to $2,100 in North Dakota.

The figures are compiled on a basis of five divisions of employees: the Chief Engineer, the assistant Chief Engineer, the department heads, the division engineers and the resident engineers.

Wisconsin has the highest paid Chief Engineer in the nine states, his department head receiving $10,000 a year. Iowa and Missouri are tied for second highest with $7,500 a piece, while Illinois, with $7,000, Michigan, Minnesota and South Dakota with $6,000 come fourth, sixth and seventh.

Nebraska, paying their department head $3,906, is eighth on the list and North Dakota, paying her Chief Engineer but $3,492 a year is the lowest among the nine.

Wisconsin and Minnesota with $6,000 a year, Missouri with $6,000, Iowa with $4,800, Illinois with $4,000, South Dakota with $3,900, and Montana with $3,600 are ahead of North Dakota in the amount paid their assistant chief engineers.

Nebraska paying her assistant $2,400 is the only one among the eight states who have assistant chief engineers, that is lower than North Dakota with her salary of $3,300 for the assistant Chief Engineer.

Department heads in North Dakota are paid but from $2,700 to $3,000 a year while in the neighboring states the salaries for these officials range from $3,000 to $4,800. The majority of them being about $4,500.

Division Engineers in North Dakota are paid but $2,640 while in the other states they range from $2,800 to $4,000.

Resident Engineers in North Dakota receive but $1,800 to $2,100 in salary while in the majority of the neighboring states the salaries for these employees average from $2,100 to $2,600.

Illinois 4. Gaining by ones and twos, his total stood at 34 on the 5th and on the 6th it went to 55 by the addition of Louisiana. Then for 13 roll calls it stood still.

Davis' Votes Rose Steadily By this time the deadlock between Smith and McAdoo had become a grim tug of war, but Mr. Davis' votes rose steadily to a peak of 129 on the 23rd ballot. For a ballot the total remained stationary, and then it dropped slowly to 38 on the 58th ballot. That was his lowest point between the opening ballots and the end, for despite the Ralston opposition, Davis climbed from 60 on the 59th, to 76 on the 67th and 78 on the 74th. After a few more ups and downs within a margin of 15 votes, he had 68 on the 93rd.

At that point Ralston had reached his highest total, and his sudden withdrawal from the race proved a windfall to the Davis boom, which, when the roll was called for the 96th time, had gathered in enough from widely scattered sources to bring Davis up to 171 and on the 100th roll call, the last before adjournment, Mr. Davis' total stood at 203.

McAdoo and Smith both were out indefinitely, but the tired delegates were not yet certain where they should turn. The states standing at the head of the column temporized, either standing by their favorites or scattering their strength widely. But when Maryland was called, Governor Ritchie, who himself had been given the solid vote of his state through an even hundred roll calls, mounted a chair under the Maryland standard at the rear of the hall and shouted up 16 votes for Davis.

Finda Himself in Lead Before the cheering was over, Mississippi had followed the lead of Maryland and a little later North Carolina gave Davis 20 out of her 24. Ohio gave him 22; Pennsylvania 19; South Carolina 18. Virginia, breaking the solid 24 she had been hoarding for her favorite son, Senator Glass, gave half of them to the son of her neighbor on the West. New York took notice of his candidacy for the first time, giving him a solitary one from her 90. In a field of 16 candidates, he had received on this Lorain, N. D., July 10.—No pleas entered in district court here recently by Ray W. Craig, former shipper-banker charged with embezzlement and forgery. The defendant was arraigned on a charge of forgery Tuesday and the court granted a motion to reinstate a bond of $2,000 declared forfeited in June when Mr. Craig failed to appear for trial. It was stated that he was detained in Florida because of the serious illness of his child. Following his arraignment for forgery, attorneys for the defense made a motion to dismiss on the grounds of lack of jurisdiction. This motion was overruled. The defense then moved a general demurrer to the information and the afternoon was spent in arguing this motion.

But that's not quite fair to gold. Gold is just the symbol of scarcity. The real culprit is scarcity, which appeals to the peculiar human instinctive craving to own anything that is rare enough to be available only for a few.

The effective use of plaid material on plan is shown in this gown of black faille, trimmed with black and white. It is really nothing more than our standard dress, the most dress, given a little extra fixings in the way of frills and bands. The jabot front and frilled sleeves are feminine and engaging looking and are much more becoming to many women than the severe finish of tailored lapels. The wrap-around skirt caught up at the side cannot be improved upon for comfort and is universally becoming.

The effective use of plaid material on plain is shown in this gown of black faille, trimmed with black and white. It is really nothing more than our standby this year, the coat dress, given a little extra fixings in the way of frills and bands. The jabot front and frilled sleeves are feminine and engaging looking and are much more becoming to many women than the severe finish of tailored lapels. The wrap-around skirt caught up at the side cannot be improved upon for comfort and is universally becoming.

THE DEMOCRATIC CHOICE

The Democratic national convention, after being berated soundly in all parts of the country for its apparent inability to reach a decision on the presidential nominee, is entitled to meet its accusers with a steady gaze. For the convention, in choosing John W. Davis, nominated a man of unquestioned ability and integrity, a man who doubtless would make the country a safe and sane executive. Mr. Davis has a fine record behind him for faithful service to his nation, and his personal conduct in his profession has been highly praised by those who know him.

Whether the Democrats have nominated a good man but a poor candidate remains to be seen. William Jennings Bryan, whose power in politics has been great but whose political acumen has not been keen at all times, believes that the fact that Mr. Davis has numbered among his clients large New York financial interests makes him a poor vote getter. Mr. Bryan wanted the antithesis of Coolidge nominated by the Democrats, which appeared to be sound logic from the standpoint of party fortunes. Friends of Mr. Davis found a ready answer to the charges of serving big interests in the statement that he had, as a lawyer, represented "Mother" Jones, the noted West Virginia strike leader, and had appeared as counsel for many labor unions, still being so retained.

Doubtless the Democrats will seek to ride into power on their assault on the Republican administration, laying stress upon Teapot Dome and similar investigations. It may be assumed, however, that Mr. Davis will not stoop to canards or to the level of a demagogue to win the election. The Democrats in the past had the support of some powerful labor leaders. Whether they will still have this support, or it will go to Robert M. LaFollette, is yet a question.

Mr. Davis does begin the campaign under a handicap. The Democratic convention has been split into warring camps. It is hardly possible that all of the wounds of the long and bitter conflict can be healed, even by the scent of victory. Mr. Davis also has been a Wilson appointee and a supporter of the League of Nations, an issue which the convention that nominated him dodged in its resolutions.

MOVIES

What's wrong with the movies? One of the best answers comes from President Faunce of Brown University: "The fundamental principle of the moving picture is that there shall be no grades in pictures, that nothing shall be thrown upon the screen which is not equally intelligible to old and young, to educated and ignorant."

On the other hand, President Faunce, it is not the function of entertainment or recreation to be educational. When we relax, as at the movies, most of us revert to childish intelligence. Otherwise, musical comedies and burlesque shows would play to empty houses.

DIVORCE

In 1897 one American marriage in every 17 wound up in divorce. Now the figure is one in every seven. Six marriages are successful to every marriage that ends in a divorce degree. Broadly speaking, of course, for not all of the six marriages are happy unions.

Marriage is the most important decision ever made by the average person. It is more of a gamble for women than for men. It should never be rushed into on sudden impulse. Love is apt to sweep people off their feet. Calm deliberation pays.

MOON-ROCKET

The big skyrocket that will be shot toward the moon, with a man inside, is nearing perfection, Professor Goddard announces.

It will be used first to explore the earth's atmosphere so far up that airplanes cannot travel there on account of rarity of the air.

At last report, nearly 20 men have applied for the job of traveling inside the super-rocket when it is shot moonward. Would you make the trip for the few hours of thrills such as no man ever before had?

DANGER

Marriages in which the age of the woman at the time of the wedding is under 20, and the man five or more years older, are seven times more apt to terminate in divorce than other marriages. This is shown by investigations conducted by Professor Hart of Iowa State University.

Youth is impulsive. Youth also is inclined to scoff at the advice of older people. Where parents oppose marriage, it's usually for the good of their child involved. Listen and reason, young people. All they want is your happiness assured.

SLAUGHTERED

Autos in New York City in a year kill 413 children under 16 years of age and injure 11,252. The victims over 16 include 464 killed and 21,915 injured.

With very few exceptions, these accidents could have been avoided by proper caution on the part of both motorists and pedestrians. With car registrations increasing swiftly, compulsory caution is inevitable—probably by gearing machines down at the factory so they can't exceed a speed of 15 miles an hour.

RECOVERING

The English during the war had to sell a lot of their investments. They owned 20 billion dollars of such investments. Had to sell a fourth. In a year they have recovered two billion dollars worth. Another year and a half, at this rate, and the English will have as strong a grip as ever on property in other lands.

The World's War wounds are healing fast.

Coolidge says he will meet the farming problems. Hope he doesn't shake hands, and pass them by.

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues, which are being discussed in the press of the day.

THE LAFOLLETTE PLATFORM

Mr. LaFollette's platform on which he appeals for the votes of the American people, makes the breaking up of private monopoly in industry in the United States a central plank. He says neither of the old parties, in their platforms, have promised or intended to do this; that a third party is necessary, appealing to the voters of both the old parties. Mr. LaFollette assumes that it is possible to restore the old order of economic conditions and bring back the cut-throat competition that prevailed under that system.

His views of the breaking up of private business co-operation, or organizations that are now operating in our industrial life, are not concurred in by many of the progressives themselves. In North Dakota a LaFollette candidate for congress voices opposition to Mr. LaFollette's views in public addresses, pointing out that the anti-trust laws of congress, designed to do what LaFollette declares is a remedy, have been unable to accomplish the purpose; that these laws have fallen down in attempting to break up combinations of manufacturing and labor interests; that each group which now dictates production and prices in their own field, is supreme in the control of the output of iron, coal, oil, steel, lumber, sugar, meat, mining, manufacturing, transportation, and all important business enterprises.

Suits in federal courts to break up these monopolies have been instituted but the results where they have had effect at all have only changed the superficial forms of the combination, rather than uprooted them. The execution of the criminal penalties in the anti-trust laws, had not been enforced, for to do this would be to treat as criminals, the managers and stockholders of nearly every great industrial industry, but that of farmers.

Mr. LaFollette's picture of the distress and privations of those groups, engaged in the above industries, is greatly overdrawn. Good wages, a higher standard of living, enjoyment of the comforts of life, increased advantages and many modern luxuries are had by these groups; and if not had by some of the individuals it is largely through their own folly or poor judgment; for others in that group enjoy them.

Mr. LaFollette's platform offers no real solution for the agricultural group, than the platforms of either of the old parties. The agricultural class, it is admitted, stands out unprotected, as the one great unorganized national industry. The surplus products of the farm in the last four or five years, have been increasing in abundance, and the natural law of supply and demand has markedly operated, but not entirely, in the fixing of the prices.

To a certain extent, Mr. LaFollette is correct in saying that "through grain exchanges, elevator combinations, and packing monopolies, the markets are manipulated and prices fixed on all products of the farm."

But this could only happen with a surplus of products which the farmer dumps upon those who are in position to handle the products after they leave the farm. Farmers instinctively know that natural causes, due to requirements of increased population, and the higher standards of living in the United States, constitute an economic development new to this country; and everyone who studies the trend of events realizes that these natural causes cannot be obliterated by legislation. Education, with the farmers, is the first necessity for co-operation, and this, with every natural control of the food products, would soon be in the supreme position of securing a fair profit for farm products at the hands of the other groups.

If the final result of business combinations should result in oppression of other groups, then the government, if it stands for all, can hold up the business control, for all, and use a measuring rod to limit the exactions which one class might impose in hardships on another.

Mr. LaFollette's scheme of restoring the old industrial conditions and the solving of the farm problem, is inadequate.

But in several instances he gives a real warning, especially concerning the greed of those who made millions out of war, and who systematically breed international conflicts. This group is relentless, and most dangerous to our safety, and peace, when it can control an international conference. Mr. LaFollette wisely says this government must restrain our own war makers, before we can hope for world stability; and this government must join with France, Germany and Great Britain to do what the common people of this and those countries demand in the prevention of war.—James Brown Albert

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

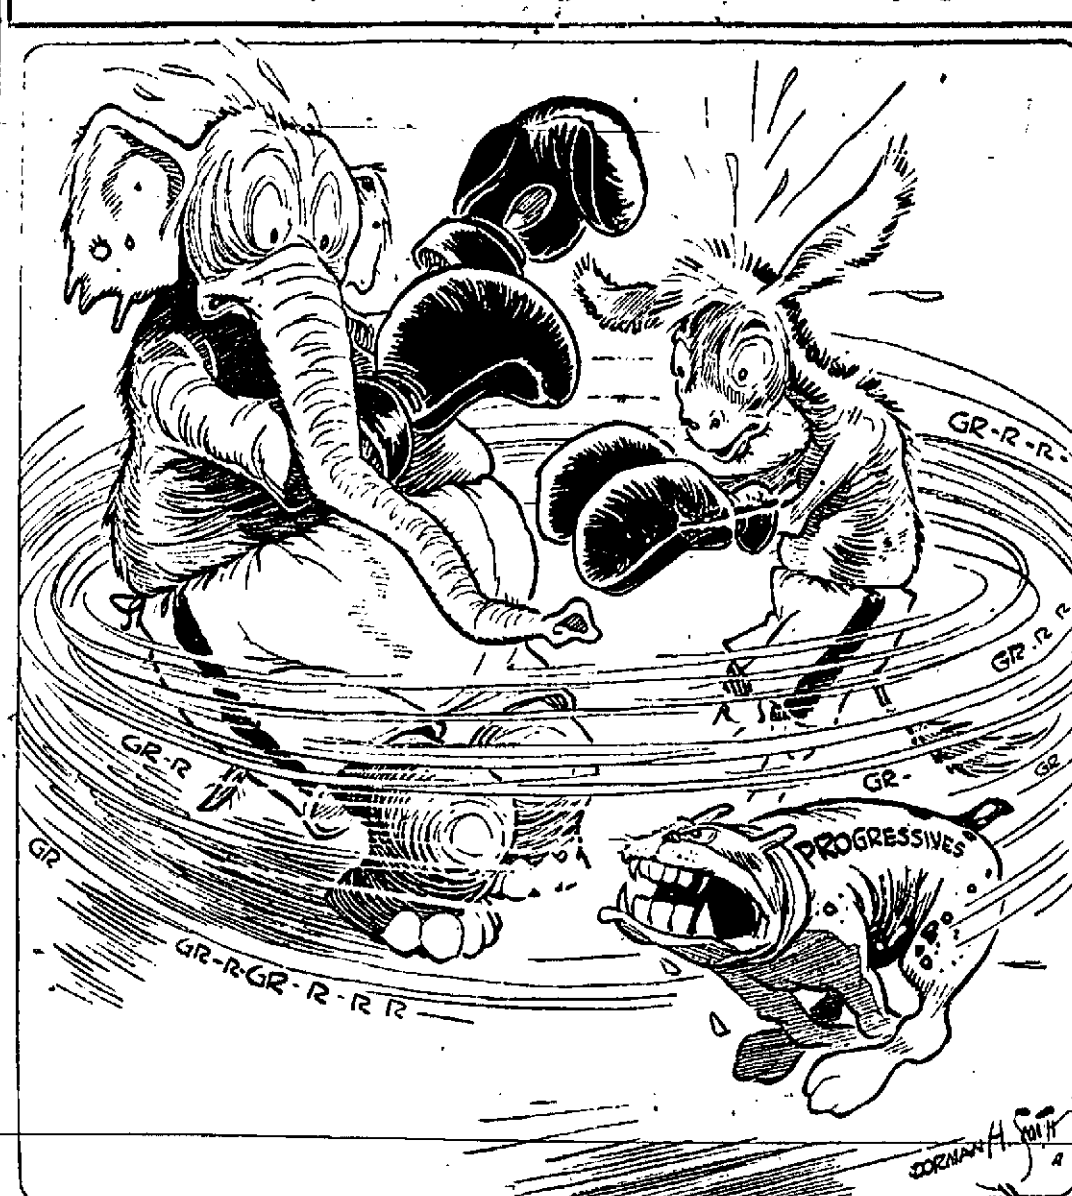

Daddy Cracknuts and his wife, Mrs. Cracknuts, got on the ferris wheel in Mister Zip's amusement park where the Twins were working. Daddy sat down and his wife sat down beside him and they put their feet on a little place below the seat and held on tight.

Then the wheel began to turn around very, very slowly. And the more the wheel turned the higher Daddy and Ma went.

There were 10 seats on the ferris wheel and every one of the seats was full.

Nancy had helped Mosley Mud Turtle and his son, Mosley Junior, into one of the seats, and Ben Bunny and his wife, Mrs. Bunny, into another of the seats, and Mister Drake and his wife, with their nephew, Cutie, Cottontail, between them, and Markie Muckrat and a friend into another seat, and Granddaddy Frog and six of his grandchildren into another seat, Mrs. Duck, into another seat, and the ferris wheel was as full as a can of corn. Really it did seem that if people kept on spending their nickels and dimes the way they were doing, Mister Zip, the fairman, would certainly make two fortunes!

How Can They Put on a Good Fight With All This Interrupting?

FABLES ON HEALTH EXERCISE REGULARLY

Mr. Jones, like most busy business men, found it necessary to relax his exercise period, to Saturday and Sunday.

Most people find it difficult to live a thoroughly balanced day.

A daily rhythm would consist of a balance of work and play, both of forms of activity; and rest and sleep, which are forms of inactivity. Of these four plays and rest get the least attention.

Particularly do men find it hard to take time out for daily exercises. They try to pack all their play and exercising into a single Sunday. On this day alone does he get the entire four balancing factors into his routine.

Of course there are many people who do not need as much exercise as others; and there are some who do not need as much rest; some do less than their share of work and some more.

It is in the rebalancing of these proportions that one very important hygienic problem lies.

The tendency of the present time is to overdo almost everything: except rest. When men play they generally play too much to "get even" for the time they have neglected playing.

To eat our heavy meals on Sunday and our hardest playing on Saturday or Sunday, or during a vacation period, are equally absurd.

MOVIES FEAR TO SATIRIZE BABBITT AS BUSINESS MAN

By Jack Jungmeyer
NEA Service Writer

Hollywood, July 10.—"Babbitt-at Home" would have been a more accurate title for Warren Brothers' screen version of Sinclair Lewis' satire on the American business man.

Such phases of the novel as have been pictured are fairly close to the original, but many of the revealing incidents and nearly all the jokes in "Babbitt" have been tactfully eliminated for the screen.

"George Babbitt," that pillar of persuasive dramatism, has so many close relatives in Hollywood that it was simply beyond human nature to hold him up to ridicule.

His kin are in every studio. They sell just lots and lots of real estate in this town of homes and churches. They dominate the Chamber of Commerce and all the best fraternal organizations. The Babbitt men stick together—and inherit the earth.

So it was all right, maybe, to kid George a little about his home life—because Babbitts themselves are always kidding about the wife. But the Warner Brothers' film, directed by Harry Beaumont, concentrates on "Babbitt" as a husband and father, rather than a business man. It substitutes comedy for satire. It presents an interesting part for the whole. But it is an entertaining and amusing picture, well worth any theatergoer's time.

Willard Louis, "Babbitt" to the life, ample, fatuous, energetic, vain of his success, but a little ashamed of his wife and tolerantly bullied "Myra," petulant martyr to her husband's business exactions—and wearing perhaps the last pair of high waisted corsets extant. They are a fine pair—the players not the costumes.

The great "Babbitt" that is to say, the great self-conscious urban American, fights with his children for the bathroom.

Orders banana fritters for breakfast, and then whines at the monotony of fare.

Upraises his youngsters for eating like pigs, the while he stuffs mightily.

Talks pompously with his neighbors about the weather. Believes in having pretty stenographers who help business. Is breezy and slangy and a good fellow.

"None of this romantic nonsense," he admonishes his son, smitten by the neighbor's daughter—and then he himself falls easy victim to the designs of "Tania Judique," music teacher to whom he has rented a house.

His wife's illness and his son's wild plea only save "Babbitt" from an elopement, when for the only time in his life he concedes that Paris might have something over his home town "Zenith."

"Gosh, what a family!" in his own words.

Raymond McKee is role perfect as the son. His comic and pathetic encounters with his father are among the finest bits in the picture, and his romance with Gertrude Olmstead, capably playing "Tania," is captivating. Others who engage attention are Carmel Myers, as the vamp; Dale Fuller, the servant; Cissy Fitzgerald, little Virginia Loomis, Kathleen Myers, and Michael Dark.

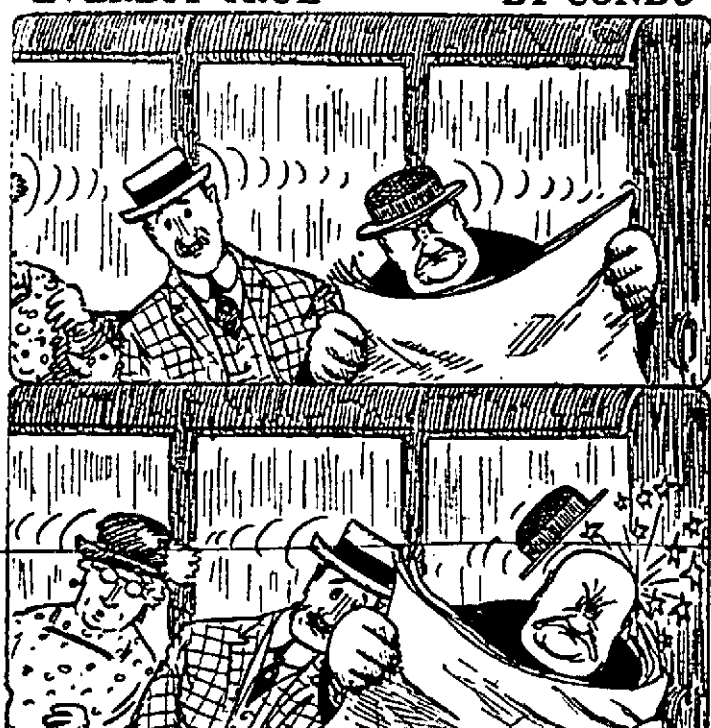

How well the Warners understood their public in making "Babbitt" a domestic comedy-drama instead of Lewis' social satire was indicated by an incident at the premier showing here.

The word "America," on a big board, was flashed on the screen at the beginning, while the orchestra struck a strain from the anthem. The audience was about to rise to its feet when the camera panned down to the contrabass—America—has flown from town like Babbittville. Only one of "George's" patriotic little advertisements, Brown Bab-

JOLTS MOTORMAN.
Today Everett True put a dent in a motorman's cap. He said he was tired of being jerked apart and bumped together every time the car was stopped and started.

He also said "some motormen seem to think a street car is a cock-tail shaker." Of course it actually is in some cases.

END OF GOLD IN SIGHT?

By Albert Apple

In 80 or 40 years the great gold mines of the world will all shut down for good, predicts Dr. G. Berg, of the Prussian Geological Institute.

His idea is that, by that time, the mines will have been worked to the point where it will no longer pay to operate them.

And new mines of importance are not apt to be discovered, for practically the whole world has already been prospected for the precious yellow metal, Berg argues.

However—
Only a few years ago American geologists were predicting a permanent shortage of oil, with no new big oil pools to be discovered. Enormous oil pools continue to be opened up periodically, nevertheless. Right now there's a world surplus of oil.

On the other hand, assume that Berg is right. Fascinating possibilities present themselves. It is claimed by experts that not more than half of the gold that has been taken from the ground by man is still in man's hands.

Dropped by bit, it is lost here and there—such as gold sinks buried in deep water. Huge gold cargoes have been sunk at sea.

If no more gold were to be found in the earth, the available supply of gold would steadily decrease.

The vanishing of the world's supply of gold might be more of a blessing than a calamity. For one thing, it would compel man to put his money system on a scientific basis—as, for instance, making the dollar represent a certain number of units of human energy or labor. Instead, we have the gold system, based on the element of scarcity—for gold, after all, is worthless except for filling teeth and other purposes where its ability to withstand corrosion is valuable.

If lead were as scarce as gold, lead would be worshipped and be used as the basis of money. Gold has been condemned as the inciter to greed, dishonesty, murder and other crimes and forms of degradation.

But that's not quite fair to gold. Gold is just the symbol of scarcity. The real culprit is scarcity, which appeals to the peculiar human instinctive craving to own anything that is rare enough to be available only for a few.

LETTER FROM MRS. JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO PRISCILLA BRADFORD, CONTINUED.
"But surely, Leslie," I said to her, "when we complain of her husband's selfishness, 'you cannot begin to teach a child before it can talk to be unselfish.'"

"You certainly can," answered Leslie. "The new theory in child training is to begin immediately, not only with physical but with mental and moral discipline. It is not from my being angry with little John that he is thinking now that he is abused" (little John at this moment was howling at the top of his voice) "but it is because of your own selfishness in not considering what is best for him in your desire to hold him in your arms and rock him to sleep."

"As for my not doing the same with a child that I have borne myself, I would make no difference in my duty toward any child whom I consider my particular responsibility."

With that, Leslie left the room, and shortly after, Miss Anderson came and took me to my apartment. Although Miss Anderson did this very diplomatically, saying she was afraid I would be disturbed by little John's screams and cries, I am sure that Leslie told her that she must come after me.

I never thought, dear Priscilla, that Leslie could be so hard. I can see now that she will always have her own way even if the heavens fall. I used to worry for fear she and John would pay too much attention to the baby they had adopted, but now my great fear is that the poor little thing will be neglected. There is no reason why you should not come a day or two before the party and stay with me in my apartment. If you can do this I wish you would write me, or telephone.

Until I hear from you, I remain, Always your friend, MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT.

Night Wife From Priscilla Bradford to Mary Alden Prescott
Will be very glad to accept your invitation. Think you are perfectly right in your ideas about little Jack. ## LOCAL LEAGUE PLANNING FOR FINE FINISH

Commercial League Gets Under Way on Last Half of Season's Schedule

ASKS FANS SUPPORT

The Bismarck Commercial League, which has resumed its schedule, expects to stage a hot finish in the league games during the remainder of the present season.

The Bismarck Commercial League is sponsored by the Association of Commerce with the object of furnishing good clean baseball without the heavy expense which the city teams of the last two years have incurred. The standard of play is undoubtedly not as high but the spectators can at least have the satisfaction of knowing the players and not feeling a tramp in the pocketbook every time that baseball is mentioned.

An admission charge of 25 cents is made, one fourth of which goes toward payment for the lumber in the stands in an endeavor to keep the park for public use. Bismarck's high school athletics and other activities practically require a closed field as a community proposition. The directors of this league under the Association of Commerce feel that these games are a public opportunity for both community service and through enjoyment.

Friday evening at 6:30 at the ball park the Transportation meet the Alex Rosen & Bro. team. A win for either means a tie for first place.

The schedule for the balance of the season is as follows:

Divide Double Header With Detroit Tigers

Chicago, July 10.—Washington still rested in first place in the Americans today, having split with Detroit in a double header, and the Yankees having gone down to defeat before the Chicago White Sox, leaving Washington with a 19-point lead. Washington lost the first game to Detroit, 5 to 2, and won the second game, 4 to 2. The Boston Red Sox took a double header from St. Louis, 5 to 0 and 5 to 4. The Cleveland Indians also won a double header, the victim being Philadelphia, 3 to 1 and 6 to 3. Ineffective pitching by Markle and Gaston gave the Chicago White Sox an 8 to 6 victory over the New York Yankees. Most hit two home runs for Chicago. In the Nationals, Cincinnati beat Philadelphia, 3 to 1, while Boston defeated Pittsburgh, also 6 to 3. Jess Petty, pitching ace of the Indianapolis American Association team, registered his 16th victory yesterday.

BOUT WITH CARPENTIER AT LEAST WILL GIVE FANS LINE ON REAL ABILITY OF GENE TUNNEY

Gene Tunney

BY JOE WILLIAMS
New York, July 7.—The strange and perplexing case of Mr. James Joseph Tunney, known professionally as Gene, is to be wheeled back into the operating room for further clinical experiments.

Mr. Tunney, professing to the light heavyweight championship of America, has signed to exchange punches, "the saying goes, with George Carpentier, celebrated French foot racer, here next month.

Nobody seems to be able to state with any degree of positiveness whether Mr. Tunney, a fistic product of the A. E. F., is a first-class fighting unit or not.

Tommy Gibbons is another fighting gentleman who can hardly keep a straight face when Tunney's name is mentioned.

"I'll say this for him, though, he uses beautiful English," Gibbons, too, may be moderately prejudiced. The St. Paul shantock has been trying, unsuccessfully, for several seasons to get a shot at Tunney.

Much of the skepticism regarding Tunney's ability went out of the scene after the fight with his manager, the shrewd Billy Gibson, engineered his matches. If the boys looked too tough, Mr. Tunney was kept far away from them. With the exception of the two Greb bouts, Tunney hasn't faced a really high grade batter. In the first Greb bout, Tunney was beaten, in the second he was victorious. In neither did he look the part of a sensation.

Gibson, his manager, tells you Tunney is a greatly improved fighter and predicts he will beat Carpentier worse than Gibbons did at Michigan City.

Will Beat Carpentier
"I brought Tunney along slowly," says Gibson, "just as I brought Benny Leonard along by easy stages. Tunney didn't look any worse in his fledgling days than Benny did. Finally Benny reached his real form and won the world's lightweight championship. Tunney won the American light heavyweight title before reaching his top-most ability. Today he is really a great fighter."

Mr. Gibson is, of course, not unlike the common run of fight managers, and one should not take his enthusiasm too seriously.

Tunney is a pretty fair fighter, but no world beater. He is fast and clever and these qualities ought to win for him over the decrepit Carpentier.

Tunney, however, has never been a great aggressive fighter. Taking chances is not his specialty. Carpentier can still fling a fairly hard straight right. Tunney may decide that discretion is eminently the better part of valor, and go into a shell.

If he does it will be a terrible right to watch, for the Frenchman proved in his marathon with Gibbons that he can retreat with the worst of them.

Renault and Dempsey Labor Day? Champion Expected To Meet Canadian Challenger In No-Decision Fight

BY JOE WILLIAMS
Michigan City, July 10.—Here's a piece of fistic news right off the teatender and it has a better than fifty-fifty chance to stand up.

Despite statements to the contrary, Jack Dempsey, champion of the heavies, intends to fight one fight before the summer season ends.

And that fight will be held in the blue sky bowl in this picturesque village on Labor Day.

Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight, who has been stepping high, who has been stepping late, will be the champion's opponent.

The fight will be 10 rounds with no decision.

Frank Parker of Chicago—Lucky Parker they call him—will be the promoter.

A New Tex Rickard of the middle west, Parker promoted the Carpentier-Gibbons fight here and it drew a gate of $227,000 a record for a bout in which neither contestant was a champion.

Parker, on July Fourth, had two champions scheduled on the same card here—Harry Greb, monarch of the middies, and Abe Goldstein, boss of the bantams. It was not his fault the card was postponed on account of an epidemic.

Associated with Parker is Floyd Fitzsimmons, a close personal friend of Dempsey.

Generally speaking, you must lay the dough on the line for Mr. Dempsey. Friendships mean little or nothing in his combative career at the box office. There is, however, one exception. Dempsey will go out of this way to fight Fitzsimmons. He has done it before.

NET QUEEN IN OLYMPIAD

HELEN WILLS

Although beaten in the international championship in England, Helen Wills, queen of America's tennis courts, will get a chance to redeem herself in the Olympic net meeting, which bring together all the world stars.

SUZANNE ON THE GO

Here is the first picture to reach this country of Suzanne Lenglen, idol of France, in action on the Wimbledon courts. The French star faced one of the hardest battles of her career the other day in a match with Elizabeth Ryan, a California girl. Lenglen finally won, but it took practically all her strategy to do it.

Smart Tennis Stars Often "Lose to Win"

By Mercer Beasley
The A-to-Z Man of Tennis

Sometimes it pays to lose to win. This may sound misleading, but as a strategic policy it is not without merit. Here is where it applies.

Suppose you are facing an opponent who has started out in whirlwind fashion, and is playing all over the court and playing well. It begins to appear as if you may be overwhelmed. You may not admit it, but he is playing better tennis.

Still this man must have a weakness. All you have seen so far is his strength. The "flash player" is not at all uncommon tennis. By that I mean the player who warms up like a national champion and perhaps continues to play like one through the first set. But as the match lengthens out his true form is asserted, and he begins to play with greater care and caution. It is here that your "losing to win" policy brings forth its results, providing you haven't already lost because as a result of your opponent's early power.

By now you have probably learned your opponent's weakness and can play to it. But you would not have detected these flaws if you had tried to match every dazzling shot he made in the early stages of the match. You would have spent so much of your time and energy in trying to match his "flash form" that you would have lost all traces of weakness which he might have disclosed.

Study the scores in the big tournaments and you will see that some of the big stars are frequently beaten in the first set. In most cases you can put it down that they were "losing to win."

Sullivan, but it goes over big today. "But who'd he ever put to sleep?" the heckler in the upper left box asks.

Well he never put the customers to sleep, and that's something you can't say for a lot of the champs.

Billy Evans Says

The value of speed to a ball team is slowly coming back to its own in the major leagues.

For a great many years, speed has been more or less of a negative quantity. Hitting has dominated the game.

Like all other styles, those of baseball constantly change. The style of play seems to run in cycles.

First we have the pitchers, supreme, then comes an era of slugging, followed by a revival of baserunning.

That has been the situation in baseball covering the period of the last 15 years.

Going back that far we find that pitching was the dominating factor of the sport. Close games with low scores were the rule. Playing for one run was all the vogue. The sacrifice and the steal were popular strategic moves.

Then came a curbing of the pitcher and the rise of the slugger. The home run became all popular. Every batter took a healthy swing. Strategy in a sense was discarded for brute force.

Now we have a sort of a fifty-fifty proposition between the pitcher and the batter, which tends to make for more baserunning. Speed once more becomes a most valuable asset.

Ty Cobb once told me that he regarded his speed as his one best bet, during the days when he was constantly thrilling the baseball world by his dashing on the bases.

When one thinks of Cobb's greatness as a player, his remarkable batting ability stands out as the thing that made him the talk of the baseball world. Yet Cobb says his great speed did more to make him a diamond celebrity than any other one thing. Cobb explains thusly:

"Nothing worries a player more than to know that he must handle a ball perfectly in order to get his man. That means he must field a ground hit cleanly and follow it up with an accurate throw.

"In my prime, I believe I could travel down to first base as fast as any one. Opposing infielders knew it, and when I came to bat they worked under a steady strain."

"Incidentally I sought to keep the opposition in the air by constantly shifting my style at the bat.

"My speed, and the mental attitude of the opposition, helped me reach first hundreds of times, when I should have been retired."

Speed isn't the asset to a winner that it was 15 years ago, but its value during the past five years has increased over 100 per cent.

The dangerous club of the two major leagues today are those who are utilizing their speed by taking chances on the bases.

The Washington club, present sensation of the American League race, is a shining example of this truth. Manager Harris has his players running at every opportunity.

Owls Flying in Flock

It is common knowledge that tawny, barn, and long-eared owls have increased considerably in numbers in East Lothian in recent years, and there is no doubt that they are today far more numerous than most people have any idea.

Noticing recently after the fall of darkness along a byroad between Macmerry and Pencalland, writes H. M. B. in the Edinburgh Scotsman, I drew the attention of my passenger to an owl flying overhead, and at the same time blackened speed so that we might obtain a better view of the bird.

We then noticed a second owl, and almost immediately a third and a fourth, flying over the field on our right. Indeed, it seemed that there was a whole flock of them, as we counted as many as six clearly visible against the sky at the same time.

At first I thought that they must be peewees, which often besport themselves thus after darkness, but as the birds crossed the rays of the head lamp there was no doubting that they were owls—tawny or barn. I think the latter. Certainly they were not long-eared owls.

Long-eared owls are, to some extent, gregarious and, as a result, by disposition—that is, a number of them may foregather irrespective of food or mating attractions. Such meetings are purely social, and in the case of the long-eared owl they occur at any season, day or night; but I have never heard of a purely social gathering of brown or barn owls.

Health Scholarship Winners Urge Tooth Brush Drill For Pupils

AMERICAN CHILD HEALTH ASSN.

When Alice went down the rabbit hole on her way to Wonderland you will recall that she tasted of the little bottle labeled "Drink Me" and then to her dismay she began to shrink and shrink and shrink. Perhaps these two young ladies shown above are two of the children who are taking part in the American Child Health Association's toothbrush drill.

A toothbrush can't grow. Even if the Duchess commanded it, the most obliging toothbrush would be at a loss what to do. Even if the Duchess lost her well-known temper and cried "Off with their heads" the toothbrushes would have to submit helplessly. But wait! Perhaps there is a chance for them! A reprieve!

A toothbrush is a pretty important part of anyone's equipment. That's what the teachers in the public schools have been trying to impress on a great many who have been rather disposed to consider toothbrushes as, at most, a nuisance.

It is quite possible someone may have taken it into his head to make a couple of toothbrushes grow very large so as to embarrass the importance of clean teeth.

These are two such unusual brushes, grown large at the command of the Duchess of Health. They made their appearance on the Pacific coast where apples and trees and things often grow very large. People out there are often inclined to look at things in a large way and this is the result.

As a matter of fact these two Alice are pupils of Miss Dora Savage, a teacher at San Francisco, who won a $500 health teaching scholarship in the contest conducted this year by the American Child Health Association. The $25,000, needed for fifty such scholarships awarded to elementary school teachers in fifty cities, was furnished by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in order to promote good health teaching and thus improve the health of the children of to-day and the grown-ups of to-morrow.

During the year the toothbrush has grown larger and larger in the minds of children everywhere in America as a result of this contest and clean teeth is but one of the Rules of the Game of Health which Miss Savage and the other teachers have emphasized.

"Auntie," she began, diplomatically, "you need not be so very particular about Mr. Smith's pajamas; don't starch them at all; just iron them out smoothly."

Aunt Sarah looked at Mrs. Smith reprovingly. "I don't begrudge him the work, missus. I want Mr. Smith's office clothes to look just as well as I kin make 'em."

Phineas Kelly's Good Fortune
By GEORGE MUNSON

Phineas Kelly was accustomed to see "a look in the old woman's eye," as he phrased it, when he came home to his tea after eight hours of peaceful employment as a bricklayer.

On this occasion there was an altogether different look in Mary's eye.

"What is it, woman?" he exclaimed, sensing that something quite different from anything in his experience had happened. "Speak out, Mary, girl! Is it the measles? If that's got him I'll while the life out of him!"

"No, it isn't," snapped his better half. "Uncle Jim's dead and has left me all his money. The lawyer thinks it will come to five thousand dollars."

While Phineas sat, exhausted from emotion, in his chair, Mary read him the letter from Ireland.

"What'll I do with it?" ejaculated her husband.

"You're going to be a contractor, Phineas, as you have always wanted to be," answered Mary. "And at the end of the month we leave."

Before he went to bed it was understood that he and Mr. Hogan, with whom the subject had been broached at times of day-dreaming, should go into the contracting business.

The days that followed were not of unalloyed bliss. Phineas wanted to remain in the little flat, even if he was to be a contractor. But Mary had her own ideas. And, as the days went by, the whole neighborhood assumed a more cordial friendship than ever before.

"We can't afford to be too friendly with that sort, Phineas," explained his wife. "Flaherty and his wife are good enough people, but just common clay."

Phineas managed to meet his old friends by various subterfuges, and he carefully explained the situation to them.

"The best woman in the world, Mike," he told Flaherty. "But you know how it is with women, Mike. The money's sort of turned her head."

"That's all right, Phin," responded Mike Flaherty.

Meanwhile Hogan and Kelly had arranged their partnership. There was a fine opening in the town, and Hogan was to put in a couple of thousand dollars supplementing his smaller contribution with his political "pull." The new partnership was formed and the Kellys were preparing to leave.

Mrs. Kelly only required a week to pack, being a methodical woman. But as the week progressed that look came into her eyes more and more frequently till Phineas, having no refuge now, to which to fly, was driven to bay.

"What is it, Mary?" he asked one evening, when his wife had been more than usually morose.

He half expected the target of reproaches; but, to his astonishment, his wife burst into tears and had her head upon his shoulder. And Phineas found himself cursing her as he had not done since Tim was a baby.

"Phineas," she wept, "I feel so mean and luluful, the way I've treated the Phineas and Hooligans, after the friends we've been. It's for the boys' sake, Phineas, dear, isn't it?"

"Sure, that's all right," answered her husband. "They understand."

"Do you think they think I think they aren't good enough for us?" inquired his wife, raising her face wet with tears.

"I guess they think they'd do as much if they were in your place, Mary," he answered.

"For half a pin," said Mary, "I'd stay right on here for old times' sake, and invite the Hooligans and Flahertys."

But three days remained when the post brought a letter from the lawyers in Ireland. Phineas brought it dutifully to his wife. She opened it and gave a scream.

"Phineas! We haven't got any money at all!" she gasped.

Phineas Kelly, with a mixed feeling of joy and sadness, took up the missive and spelled out.

"We beg to inform you," he read, "that no error was made in stating that the estate of your late uncle, Mr. James Smythe, was likely to be proved at five thousand dollars. The total amount of the estate is seventeen thousand, all of which goes to you under the will, and—"

"Seventeen thousand!" cried Mary Kelly, springing from her chair and grasping the letter from her husband's hand. "Phineas! It's true! Listen! And a check for this amount will be forwarded in a few days to you."

Suddenly the excited woman began to weep a pail before her husband's eyes.

"Mary!" he exclaimed, "you'll be too tired to pack if you—"

"But we're not moving, Phineas! We're going to stay right here."

"But we've got seventeen thousand, woman!" he cried.

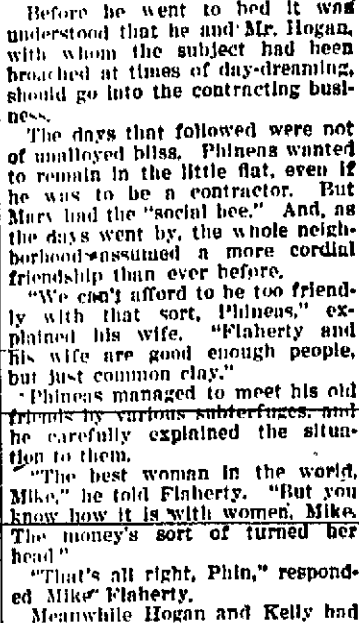

"That's why, Phineas," she answered. "With five thousand we could never be sure that the neighbors really looked up to us, but with seventeen thousand we know. We can afford to live. See?"

Phineas saw. He saw a welcome corner in Rafferty's and the familiar face of his old friends smiling out of a cloud of tobacco smoke.

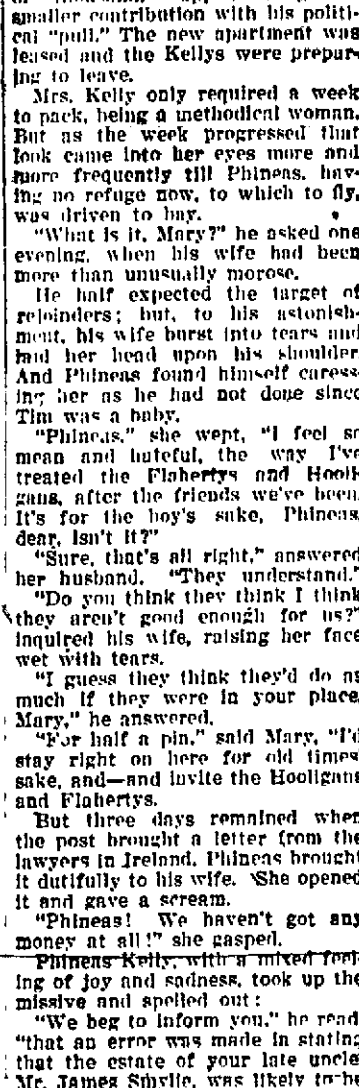

And the kiss he gave Mary drove away the "look" forever. (© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

French Give Medal To German
Mayence, Germany, July 10 (A. P.)—When an Algerian soldier of the French occupation forces fell into the Rhine near here recently he was saved by Fritz Werner, a German, who soon afterward was decorated with a medal for bravery by the French authorities.

The newspapers of unoccupied Germany have given Werner a good deal of space, and several writers suggest that he had better continue to make his home on the "other side of the Rhine," and not intrude upon the soil of Germany proper "if he knows what is good for himself."

His "Office Clothes"

Old Aunt Sarah was that rare creation, a perfect laundress, and the Smith family relied on her with the exception of Mr. Smith, who said that he did not approve of Auntie starching his pajamas. So Mrs. Smith promised that auntie should be allowed to starch the pajamas. "Auntie," she began, diplomatically, "you need not be so very particular about Mr. Smith's pajamas; don't starch them at all; just iron them out smoothly." Aunt Sarah looked at Mrs. Smith reprovingly. "I don't begrudge him the work, missis. I want Mr. Smith's office clothes to look just as well as I kin make 'em."—Kansas City Star.

French Give Medal To German

Mayence, Germany, July 10. (A. P.)—When an Algerian soldier of the French occupation forces fell into the Rhine near here recently he was saved by Fritz Werner, a German, who soon afterward was decorated with a medal for bravery by the French authorities.

The newspapers of unoccupied Germany have given Werner a good deal of space, and several writers suggest that he had better continue to make his home on the "other side of the Rhine," and not intrude upon the soil of Germany proper "if he knows what is good for himself."

The total amount in circulation, zlotys and marks, is $72,500,000. As from June 1 the government began to withdraw mark bills with a view to having only zloty bills in circulation by July 1, 1924.

M'ADOO HOLDS SILENCE, SMITH IS FOR DAVIS

Not all Scars of the Democratic Battle in New York Are Healed at End

New York, N. Y., July 10.—Not all of the scars suffered in the Democratic convention had been healed in the end, despite the fact that the vote that lifted the Davis banner to victory had come from both of the principal contending groups that had fought each other to a standstill for three weeks.

A handful of diehards in the McAdoo and Smith camps, however, took no part in the colorful and harmonious conclusion.

When the balloting for the presidential nomination turned definitely away from their idols, many of the leaders in the long fight for McAdoo and Smith, who had struggled with equal zeal for Gov. Smith were absent for the first time in days, but others were on hand expressing happiness in the decision.

Gov. Smith, after sending Mr. Davis a message of "best wishes" for success and "my promise for heartiest support" accepted an invitation to address the convention last night. He reiterated his pledge.

"I'll take off my coat and vest," he said, "and so will everybody else who follows me in this state, and do what we can to improve conditions in the United States by the election of the ticket."

A similar invitation extended to Mr. McAdoo was not accepted and he made no comment beyond a message to Mr. Davis saying: "Please accept congratulations on your nomination."

It was said at the almost deserted campaign headquarters of the California candidate that he and his family would sail in a few days for Europe.

WOMEN RUN AWAY WITH CONVENTION

BY CHARLES N. LONDON
NEA Service Artist

New York, July 10.—The bosses are stumped. The women are making themselves useful as well as ornamental in politics.

To them politics is something more than a game in which moves are made to attain patronage and other advantages—to the bosses. They are out to back candidates and issues which they believe to be a credit to the party. They are confining their games to bridge and mah jongg.

The bosses faced these facts at the Democratic National Convention at Madison Square Garden. And instead of offering them resolutions to read from the speakers' platform and acting on committees controlled by men they are trying to figure out a way to keep them "put."

At the Democratic convention they turned everything upside down. They led the delegation cheering and led demonstrations which threatened to carry the convention off its feet.

They made speeches and remarkably good ones. Not the spread-eagle sort, but hard-headed remarks which bristled with facts.

When the convention started, the party leaders viewed their cheering with amused expressions but when they threw a monkey wrench into the machinery by leading sizable demonstrations on the floor of the convention, their expressions soon changed. The gavel had to be used with considerable force to stop them.

What the old party leaders are trying to figure out is where this new force in swaying the emotions of a national convention is leading them.

Women announced the votes of their states on the roll calls in the race for the presidential nomination; they challenged the accuracy of the votes announced by the male chairmen of some of the delegations; they argued like veterans when the more seasoned politicians tried to control their votes.

It was Mrs. Marie Cooley of Georgia who changed her mind at the historic Saturday night session after voting to name the Ku Klux Klan in the platform condemning secret political organizations and thereby determined an important plank in the Democratic platform. Those who saw the remarkable demonstrations led by women at the convention will agree that the bosses have a job on their hands.

DAVIS WOULD BE THE EIGHTH PRESBYTERIAN

New York, July 10.—If John W. Davis is elected he would be the eighth Presbyterian president of the United States and that would bring the number, even with those who have been communicants of the Protestant Episcopal church, the latter at present holding the palm with eight presidents.

Charles Dawes, Republican vice-presidential candidate, attends the First Congregational church in Evanston, Ill.; President Coolidge united with the First Congregational church in Washington last October.

STEAMER IS FLOATED AGAIN

Chicago, July 10.—The passenger steamer, North American, carrying 350 passengers which went aground yesterday at Graves Reef, at the western entrance to the Straits of Mackinac, was floated from the sand bar early today without damage, and proceeded to Mackinac, according to word received here by the owners.

None of the passengers were removed and were in no danger, according to messages received here.

New York Itself a Show So Theaters Fell Flat

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

New York, July 10.—The Democratic National Convention just about put New York theaters out of business.

Theatrical managers, who had hoped to reap a rich harvest from convention visitors, found their houses deserted instead of filled. Even liberal distribution of free "paper" failed to fill the seats and give a semblance of business.

Within the first week of the convention, no less than 10 theatres—several of which had opened specially to provide entertainment for the Democratic delegates—had shut up shop. The receipts from tickets hadn't been enough to pay the electric light bills.

One explanation is that New York itself was a show to most of the visitors. There were enough places to go and enough things to see, to keep them busy and entertained outside the theatres.

Then the city fathers themselves, from Mayor Hylan down, had provided a lot of special entertainments that were worth while and which had the additional attractiveness of not costing anything.

"Why pay money to be entertained when you can be entertained for nothing—with food thrown in?" delegates asked.

Last but not least the Al Smith boosters in his old home town stood ready to stage a party or throw a feed for any delegate who would accept their hospitality. And these weren't theatre parties.

Then, of course, there was the big show at the Garden. Even New Yorkers lost interest in Broadway's plays when it could see something much more theatrical, and holding a maximum of suspended interest, down at the convention hall.

Anybody that says "national convention" to a Broadway theatre manager within the next generation will be a brave man.

While the convention offered entertainment to New York—such part as could get a ticket to one of the many sessions—convention visitors provided an equally interesting study to the delegates from the hinterland.

One of the most regular visitors, for instance, was Mrs. Perry Belmont, whose presence day by day and night by night conveyed to the delegates a hint of the wide variety in gowns and jewels possessed by New York's ultra-ultra set.

Occupying a box to the left of the national committee's pier, Mrs. Belmont came early and stayed late through every session. Her pearls and diamonds eclipsed the most brilliant gems of Democratic oratory, and they had the additional merit of variety and cash value.

Just a few of the jeweled gewgaws that intrigued the fancy of delegates, who wondered how they were going to pay their hotel bills if the deadlock held out, were: A diamond chain suspending a pearl pendant as large as a hickory nut; a seven-strand pearl dog collar; a diamond and pearl bracelet of four strands and earrings of matched black pearls the size of filberts.

There were other displays of gowns and jewels, of course, but none more varied nor so regularly exhibited as Mrs. Belmont's.

While the Democratic deadlock dragged along, with the final outcome growing more and more uncertain, word came to the convention that the Republicans had decided to tip off to Calvin Coolidge, on July 24, the secret that he has been chosen to head the G. O. P. ticket.

What the convention most desired at that time, however, was for some one to tip it off on what Democrat would be honored by a similar notification some weeks hence.

For while the Democrats were deadlocked, the Republicans were getting a running start on their campaign.

TAKES MESSAGE TELLING OF HER SON'S DROWNING

Des Moines, Ia., July 10.—Mrs. Edith Malone, telegraph operator, happened in a local newspaper office last night as a telegraph wire sounder clicked off repeatedly "DS"—the newspaper office call. The regular operator was not around so Mrs. Malone answered the call. The first message she received was a news story from McGregor, Iowa, saying that James Malone, aged 12, was drowned in the Mississippi river there during the afternoon. It was her son. She fainted. Hospital physicians last night said her condition was not serious.

CAPITOL

Those who recall Tom Mix in his uproariously funny comedy picture "Soft Boiled" will welcome the news that this athletic Fox star has made another funster, "Ladies to Board," which will open a two-day engagement at the Capitol theatre tonight. His latest picture is from the pen of William Dudley Pelley and recites the experiences of a hard boiled cow puncher who inherits an old ladies' home with all its attendant trials and fortunes—good and bad. Jack Blystone, the Fox comedy director, who held the megaphone when Mix made "Soft Boiled" was also at the helm in "Ladies to Board." Gertrude Olmsted, whose dramatic ability was proven in "Cameo Kirby," plays opposite Mix. Others in the cast are Phil McCullough, Pee Wee Holmes, Gertrude Claire and Fay Holderness.

100 CATTLE BROUGHT IN BY AID BODY

Minot, N. D., July 10.—As the result of the first month's work of the Northwestern Mutual Dairy Loan Association of Minot, 100 head of fine Holstein cattle have been introduced into this territory, it was announced recently.

The first dairy loans to be made by the association were completed this week, when applications for $5,700 worth of dairy cattle were approved by the board of directors and the loans put through. This completed the financing of the first two carloads which arrived at Makoti and Van Hook several days ago.

These dairy cattle went to 16 farmers in the neighborhood of Makoti and Van Hook. The cattle cost, delivered to the farms in their communities, from $75 to $90 each. Young cows coming in with second calves sold around $125 each and better cows brought around $150 each.
